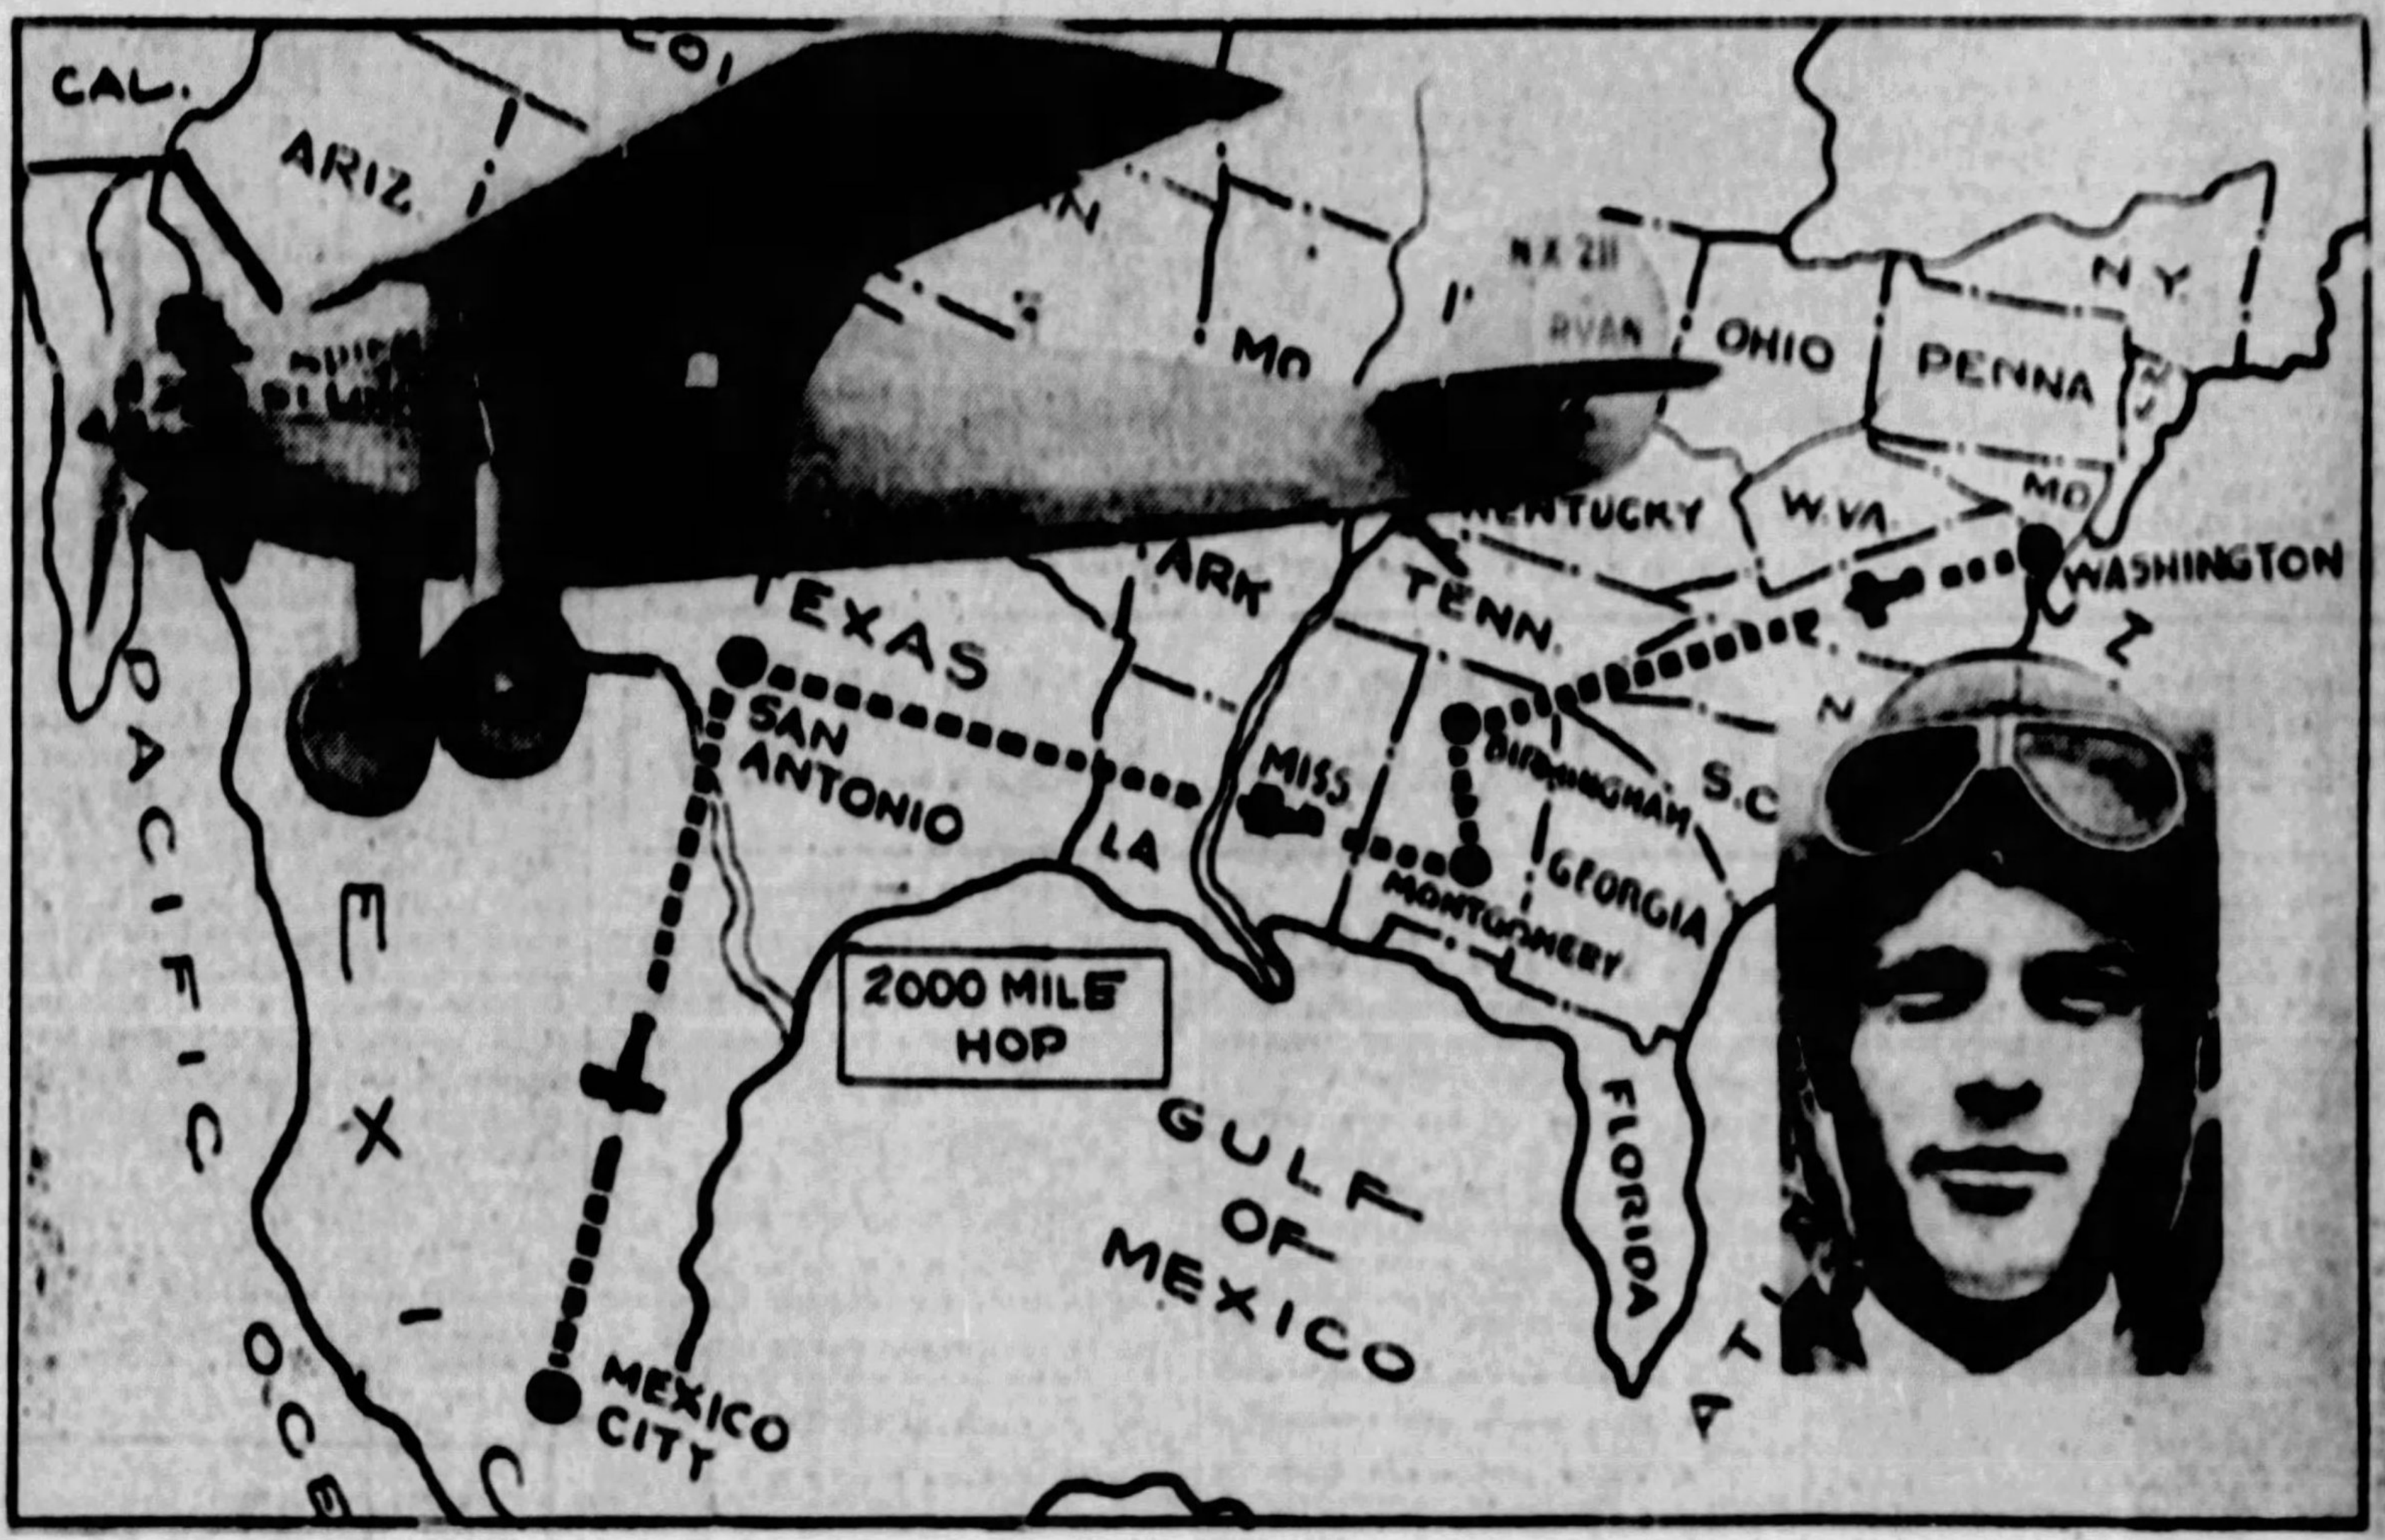
Lindbergh Off on Long Hop to Mexico City



HOPES TO MAKE WASHINGTON-MEXICO TRIP IN LESS THAN 26 HOURS

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, conqueror of the Atlantic, is winging his way from Washington to Mexico City. Taking off at Bolling Field at 12:29 p. m. today, he headed the Spirit of St. Louis over the route marked by the black dotted line. He expects to land in the Mexican capital less than 26 hours from the take-off.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Dec. 13.

THIS is written in the office of R. G. Fernald, editor and publisher of the able Santa Barbara Morning Press, on the 400-mile return trip from San Simeon to Hodge, via Los Angeles. On such a trip, the Cadillac burns about $16 worth of gasoline, covering 800 miles with seven passengers. It is almost cheaper to travel by motor in California than to stay home.

AND motoring you see many interesting things, including several unexpected, coming down the "Cuesta Encantada," a hill on which stands the Hearst ranch house. Hearst has fenced in against wolves and coyotes about three thousand acres, and experiments in acclimating animals not native here. You see a herd of 50 bison in one pasture, with a warning not to get out of your car, in that section of the ranch. Nearby a small colony of tapirs try to think they are in South America. A dozen kinds of deer, including elk and white deer from Japan, live with the bisons. Cassowaries and ostriches, the two biggest living birds, graze much at home, and a large herd of zebras block the road near them.

IN HIS menagerie, near his ranch house, Hearst has a collection of lions, tigers, wolves, bears, leopards, coyotes, cheetahs, eagles, and dozens of other creatures, interesting to study at a distance. Hearst's father kept race horses, which Hearst does not, but he makes up for it.

HERE at Santa Barbara, they once had a little earthquake, not much harm done, although Eastern newspapers made what they could of it, as usual. If the quake left any signs, they are all gone, and the city buildings are now constructed on a plan that makes them as safe in an earthquake as a market basket would be.

There won't be another earthquake, they've had their little ones. If there were another, it would hurt no one.

CHICAGO would be interested to see Hobart Chatfield-Taylor here, where he has come "to live forever, or pretty nearly," as he says.

In less than four hours, he can give you many good reasons for coming here, if you want to write books, as he does, or if you want

VELMA FEARS CHAIR

By International News Service.

PAINESVILLE, O., Dec. 13.—Lake County Prosecutor Seth Paulin today announced that the case of Velma West, 21-year-old self-confessed slayer of her husband, Thomas Edward West, at Perry one week ago, would go before the grand jury in its regular session the second week of January.

Paulin's announcement came at noon. At that hour there was no indication of habeas corpus proceedings on the part of defense attorneys to obtain release of the youthful flapper-widow on bond.

There was none of that carefree attitude today in the young wife who turned from her husband's body to a bridge table.

Instead, jail attaches reported, she appeared in a state of collapse and their efforts to assure her that she had not been given up to the electric chair—an obsession that has grown on her—were fruitless.

She was restless and usually in tears in her cell, and required the constant attention of matrons.

Kills Six, Self

HENNESSEY, Okla., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Phillip Millis killed his wife and five small children with an ax at his barn near here early today and then hanged himself from a rafter in his barn.

Neighbors said Millis, who was 40 years old, was despondent because of financial losses and family trouble.

Mrs. Millis, about the same age as her husband, and a 6-months-old baby in her arms, were killed as they slept. Twins, a boy and a girl about 8 years old, and two smaller children, likewise were killed in their beds.

Auto Thugs Beat Man

While walking in Ridge avenue near Merchant street, North Side, early this morning, L. J. Manuka, of 70 Melrose street, was beaten and robbed by three automobile highwaymen. The thieves escaped with $70.

In a report to detectives Manuka said two of the men alighted from the car brandishing guns, while the third man remained in the machine.

URBANS COLLIDE ON HILL

In a head-on collision between two Charleroi interurban cars at Mingo stop, near Finleyville, at 11:30 o'clock this morning, 15 passengers were injured, two of them seriously.

All of the victims were rushed to Monongahela for medical attention, the most seriously injured, Ed Locker, 56, Negro, of 123 First street, Donora, and Mrs. Sarah Peters, 66, Charleroi, being cared for in Memorial Hospital. The others were attended by physicians of Monongahela.

Mrs. H. A. Zewe, Finleyville; Mrs. A. L. Hambrey, Monongahela; Frank Castor, Finleyville, and Miss Thelma Smith, Gallatin, all of whom suffered cuts and bruises, were given first aid at the scene of the accident and taken home.

A southbound car in charge of Motorman John Crawford, of Castle Shannon, crashed into a northbound car manned by H. H. Gaffron and Conductor H. J. Motts. The southbound car, emerging from the switch, crashed into the northbound car. Both cars were derailed.

MINE PARLEY ON; FEW OPERATORS PRESENT

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—With a full representation of the United Mine Workers and only a handful of operators present, Secretary of Labor Davis' coal parley got under way here today.

The refusal of operators in Central and Western Pennsylvania, Ohio and Northern West Virginia to participate threw a wet blanket on the proceedings and little hope was held out that any real peace would be obtained.

After nearly three hours' discussion, Davis recessed the parley until this afternoon. The miners' representatives are scheduled to meet alone at 2 p. m., while the operators will meet an hour later. Whether there will be another joint session was not revealed.

The morning session was behind closed doors and no information was forthcoming either from Davis or the two groups involved.

Stimson Succeeds Wood

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Henry L. Stimson, of New York, was nominated by President Coolidge today to be governor-general of the Philippines.

Stimson, who was the President's personal envoy to Nicaragua in the peace negotiations there last spring, was believed to have been the President's first choice for the post for some time, but the appointment came as a surprise because it was understood that Mr. Stimson did not care to assume the responsibilities.

HOPES TO MAKE TRIP IN LESS THAN 26 HOURS

Confident that the Spirit of St. Louis, the other half of "We," will make the Washington-to-Mexico City flight in less than 26 hours, Col. Charles A. Lindbergh took off from Bolling Field at 12:30 p. m. today. The photograph shows him supervising final tuning up of his plane yesterday.

ROOF FALLS AT FIRE; 6 HURT

Caught by a collapsing ceiling, five city firemen were rescued from death by their mates while fighting a spectacular blaze in the old Grant School, Grant street and Strawberry way, last night. Another fireman was hurt when he fell over a pile of debris.

The school building was erected more than 75 years ago and was one of the city's landmarks. The damage was estimated at $50,000.

The injured:

BROOKS, JOHN H., hoseman, No. 2 Engine Company; concussion of the brain.

STEWART, GEORGE, captain No. 1 Truck Company; fractured ribs.

LIMPERT, FRANK C., hoseman, No. 2 Engine Company, concussion of the right leg.

GERNETH, JOSEPH, hoseman, No. 33 Engine Company; fractured right ankle.

Lindy Takes Rifle Along, But Scorns Parachute

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—(INS.)—An army rifle nestled in the cockpit beside Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today when he pointed the nose of his trans-ocean airplane southwestward for the 2,000-mile flight to Mexico City.

Almost half of Lindbergh's flight will be over Mexican territory, and there is always the possibility of a forced landing in the desolate and bandit-infested stretches of northern Mexico.

His only other equipment was two army canteens of water, an emergency ration kit and two life preservers, which he sat upon. He carried no parachute.

REMUS AIDE ENTERS $500,000 SUIT

By International News Service.

COURTHOUSE, CINCINNATI, Dec. 13.—John S. Berger, wealthy exposition promoter of Los Angeles, today filed suit for $500,000 against Prosecutor Charles P. Taft, who was responsible for his indictment by the Hamilton county grand jury on a charge of perjury.

Berger was a star witness last week for Remus, who is on trial for the murder of his wife, Imogene.

Shaking his fist in the faces of the prosecutors, Remus rose in court at his trial for murder today and, pleading in behalf of two indicted defense witnesses, urged the court to see to it that the jury is given the full facts on "how the state is besmirching the ends of justice by using the grand jury as a weapon against a man on trial for his life."

On each side of Remus stood the indicted men, Berger, and Vernon R. Chumbley, Remus' jail secretary.

They were being arraigned. The jury was absent.

LINDY MEXICO BOUND

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, who blazed the trans-Atlantic trail to Paris last May, took off from Bolling Field here at 12:29 o'clock today on a 2,000-mile non-stop flight to Mexico City.

He plans to make it in something less than 24 hours, the exact time being dependent upon how much the speed of his "spirit of St. Louis" is retarded by headwinds.

TAKE-OFF PERFECT

The take-off was almost perfect, despite the soggy condition of the field and the heavy load of gasoline carried. Prior to the getaway, "Lindy" and some of the army aviators stationed at the field had gone over it thoroughly and stuck small flags in the spots that were particularly wet. "The Spirit of St. Louis" carefully avoided these as it skimmed down the field.

The sky was overcast and murky, but there was a promise of good weather ahead.

Lindbergh was given an escort of six army planes on the getaway. Five of these were piloted by Army friends, and in the sixth was William P. McCracken, air secretary of the Commerce Department.

With the army planes snorting on the ground below him, Lindy circled the field once while his escort was getting into the air and then turned the nose of "We" into the haze of the southwest. In a few minutes he was completely out of sight in the murky air.

ONLY SMALL CROWD

Only a small crowd gatherd at Bolling Field to see the start of the international flight. It was composed mostly of army aviators and newspaper folk.

Lindbergh observed unusual precautions in preparing for the getaway. He had the "Spirit of St.

P. R. R. Flyer Wrecked in Ohio, 16 Injured

ALLIANCE, O., Dec. 13.—Sixteen persons, including nine from the Pittsburgh district, were injured last night when the Cleveland Flyer of the Pennsylvania Railroad, eastbound, crashed into a truck at a crossing at Atwater, O., near here, damaging the engine and derailing two coaches, a diner and a parlor car.

The injured:

M'CASSLIN, FRANK C., engineer, 1010 Lamont street, Pittsburgh; right arm cut and bruised.

MERTZ, MATT, Canton, O., driver of the truck; foot crushed.

M'CARTHY, MISS MARGARET, of Detroit; body bruises; in Alliance General Hospital.

ARMSTRONG, FRANK, Cleveland, scalp wounds; in Alliance General Hospital.

JARVIS, C. E., Lynn, Mass.; body bruises; in Alliance General Hospital.

POLLACK, LOUIS, Kittanning, Pa.; fractured hip; in Alliance General Hospital.

KOACH, J. J., Sewickley; traffic manager of the Pennsylvania Railroad; fractured leg.

OLIVER, H. C., 5605 Ellsworth avenue, Pittsburgh, general freight agent of the Pennsylvania Railroad; fractured right arm and leg, and lacerations.

LATHAM, MRS. H. C., 124 Lincoln avenue, Edgewood; sprained back.

FLEMING, ARTHUR J., Jr., Fifth avenue, Pittsburgh; back sprained.

SHEEHAN, MRS. EDWARD, 6917½ McPherson boulevard, Pittsburgh; bruised.

HORN, C. A., 20 Conklin street, Pittsburgh; bruised.

LEWIS, C., 89 Rush street, Pittsburgh; bruised.

RANDOLPH, ADDISON, cook; scalded.

THOMAS, WALTER, Negro, porter; cut on head.

The crash occurred, according to railroad authorities, when Mertz, driver of the truck, raced over the crossing directly in the path of the speeding flyer. The locomotive bowled through the middle of the truck.

A part of the truck caught under the rear wheels of the locomotive. None of the derailed coaches was overturned.

Scores of passengers were badly shaken and shocked, and many narrowly escaped major injuries.

The truck was demolished. The locomotive was badly damaged.

Attaches of the railroad last night said they did not know whether the crossing was protected by safety gates or flashes.

FIREMEN COLLECT BUNDLES

Every fire engine house in Pittsburgh has been made a receiving station for bundles of clothing for families of coal miners of this district suffering from the effects of the long strike. The bundles will be collected on Tuesday, December 20.

In designating the engine houses as places where bundles may be left by the public, Director James M. Clark of the Department of Public Safety commended the movement.

"In the interest of charity and of humanity," said the Director, "I have issued a general order to all engine companies that they shall permit bundles of clothing for the striking miners' families to be deposited in the engine houses. These people are suffering, and anything that can be done to relieve them will have my warm support. I am for 'Bundle Day'; it is a praiseworthy plan, and I hope that Pittsburghers will respond generously to the appeal."

The miners and their dependents in the Pittsburgh district, union officials estimate, number 225,000. They have been out of work on account of the strike for nearly nine months, and some longer. They have worn out their clothing and have been unable to buy new garments. The condition of the children is particularly pitiable. The shoes of many are so full of holes, and the soles have been worn so thin that they are practically useless. A special request is therefore made for children's footwear.

The locations of the fire engine houses follow. In cases where numbers are missing, the companies formerly so numbered have been consolidated with other companies.

HURT AS GRANT BURNS

on face and hands.

WEAVER, THOMAS A., hoseman, No. 39 Engine Company; lacerations of right hand.

The injured firemen were treated by Dr. Daniel E. Sable, chief city surgeon, and rushed to hospitals.

A portion of the roof collapsed and the third and fourth floors of the school house were damaged. Chief Richard Smith estimated the damage at $25,000, but others believe the loss will run twice that amount. Four alarms were sounded, bringing departments from the North Side, Oakland and downtown. Street car traffic was re-routed over Liberty avenue until after the flames had been extinguished.

The fire is thought to have originated in the basement, and to have swept up ventilating shafts. The roof was ablaze when the first firemen arrived.

The fire was fought from water towers on Grant street, from fire escapes on three sides of the school house and from the roof of a nearby building.

The injured firemen were on the fourth floor shooting water on the ceiling above when it collapsed and fell upon them. They were taken to the Mercy Hospital in a police patrol.

Brooks' condition is believed serious. Massalon was given first aid and sent home.

OLD BUILDING

Hundreds of persons stood in a heavy rain in Grant street and witnessed the blaze, among them many who at one time attended classes in the old school house.

The structure was erected in 1857. It was one of the largest schools in the city then. The building was used principally for industrial and adult Americanization night classes. It is covered by insurance, and the loss will be small, said Dr. George W. Gerwig, secretary of the School Board.

Plumbing classes that have been held in the school each morning will be held in the Ralston Industrial School, Fifteenth street, until further notice, Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of the School Board, announced last night. Announcement of other class changes will be made today.

Adults' Schools Transferred to Franklin

Two schools for adults, which have been held in the Grant school building, will be transferred to the Franklin school building, Logan and Foxhurst streets, it was announced today by School Superintendent William M. Davidson. Night school sessions for the adults will be resumed at 7:30 o'clock tonight, and the day classes for the 200 adult foreigners will be resumed at 9 a. m. tomorrow at the Franklin school.

GIVEN 2 YEARS FOR BIGAMY

Robert R. Zeek, 34, former Pittsburgh motorcycle patrolman, was sentenced to from one to two years in the workhouse by Judge Nelson McVicar in Common Pleas Court today following his conviction last week on charges of bigamy.

It was testified that Zeek deserted his wife, mother of his seven children, and married another woman. He also was convicted of two misdemeanor charges in which it was alleged that he used automobile license plates issued to other persons. Judge McVicar imposed a $100 fine in each of these cases.

EXPLOSION BURNS 4

Charles M. Mayer, Sr., of Bridgeville, is near death, and three others who were burned less seriously are also in hospital, victims of a gas explosion at Mayer's home, east of Hendersonville, late yesterday. Mayer, a son of C. P. Mayer, Bridgeville aviation enthusiast, and his son, Charles, Jr., 14, are in Canonsburg General Hospital.

W. H. Roberts and G. H. Brown of the Pierpoint Motor Company, Pittsburgh, are in West Penn Hospital, less seriously hurt.

The three men and the boy had gone to a one-story brick building, which the Mayers used as a summer home, to obtain several model aircraft which his son had built. Upon entering the building Mayer attempted to light a cigar and upon striking a match ignited gas fumes which filled the room. An explosion followed and Mayer, his clothes afire, ran to a nearby swimming pool and jumped in to extinguish the blaze.

Mayer's wife who, prior to the explosion, had gone across the road to a refreshment stand, escaped injury.

Today

to pretend that you really are in heaven, and do nothing at all.

LOOKING back to his big house in Lake Forest, on the edge of Chicago, exposed to bleak winds from Lake Michigan, he rejoices like a spirit released from an Esquimaux purgatory. Why some men that might live here stay in the windy, dusty, slippery, snowy, hurried East, is too much of a puzzle for Hobart Chatfield-Taylor. He has tried all the places on earth, and having found Santa Barbara, does not care how long his visit to paradise is postponed.

BUSINESS men in this region are disturbed by a suggestion concerning bank stocks, backed by Mr. Mitchell of the National City, and A. P. Giannini of the Bank of Italy, the two biggest banks in America.

BOTH would take their bank stocks off the stock exchange, to discourage speculation, unbecoming in stocks of that character. Why not follow the British plan and forbid, under heavy penalty, any short selling of bank stocks, while encouraging bona fide investment in such stocks?

WHEN Harry L. Horton, then oldest member of New York's exchange, was in his London office, he was much impressed by the rule against selling any bank stock short. If you had it, you could sell it. But no speculative selling, only bona fide buying, no selling what you did not own.

HOW would that appeal to Messrs. Giannini and Mitchell. There is no good reason why those that choose should not buy good bank stocks, of which many will yield gigantic profits.

IN EVERY city along this California coast, 165 California cities altogether, there are branches of the great Bank of Italy. Each bank even in the smaller towns has back of it all the resources of the big bank, and can finance fully, any local enterprise, no matter what the amount needed. Forty per cent of the bank's profits go to employes, and that bank gets service. The heads and employes of banks purchased and included in the Giannini banking organization, invariably find themselves better off than before. Citizens see the institution, deal with it, and want to invest in it.

UNDER the new law, permitting branches, Mr. Mitchell's great New York bank will doubtless spread out, to serve scores of business communities, as Mr. Giannini's bank has done already. Let the people invest in sound bank stocks, but don't let stock jugglers gamble in them. Tens of thousands in this state have their earnings in Bank of Italy stocks, and should have a constant market, if they want it.

IF HENRY FORD comes to Santa Barbara, and is in a hurry, he can go south to Los Angeles in an hour, to San Diego in two hours, in one of his own three-engine flying machines via the Maddux airline. Arlo Atchison, who made the Los Angeles round trip Sunday in a heavy rain, complains that the trip, in a warm, closed cabin, lacks excitement. Soon the question will be, open flying machine for sensation, or closed machine for comfort.

SPRING is here. In California outside fertile Santa Maria, to the north, on thousands of acres of jet black soil, washed down from the hills to the ocean's edge, you see next season's green peas, the plants about six inches above ground.

ANOTHER big crop, oil, continues to surprise the world. Uncle Sam has seventy per cent of the world's oil, and is going to eat his oil cake over again. Where wells were drilled, "exhausted," as the owners thought, and abandoned long ago, only the first little layer of oil was taken out. Those old wells are being redrilled deeper, and deeper wells yield the really big oil supply.

THAT does not please those that would like oil scarce and oil stocks high, but it is a fine thing for the country. And California, with its rich soil, fine climate above it, and big oil lakes below it, is really worth seeing. Get your car and come out.

SUES THAW FOR $100,000

FOREST HOPE WALLS

Harry K. Thaw, Pittsburgher now in Los Angeles with two movie proteges—feminine—whom he hopes to develop into screen stars, is being sued for a $100,000 alleged breach of promise. Forest Hope Walls, former film extra, of Culver City, is the plaintiff. She is the girl who, with her mother, journeyed from Hollywood to the Thaw estate at Stephensville, Va., declaring Thaw had asked her to come there and marry him. She said she met Thaw in the west in 1923. At that time, records show, he was confined in the Pennsylvania State Hospital, not being released until April 23, 1924. Inset shows Harry K. Thaw.

Judge Rips Spineless Jury

By Universal Service

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Judge John P. McGoorty denounced the jury finding Roland H. Gaskell, former county highway policeman, guilty of attacking Miss Louise Smith for sentencing him to only two years' imprisonment.

Following the dismissal and the reprimands, three of the jurors, weeping, told Assistant State's Attorney Charles M. Daugherty they would sentence Gaskell to life if they could "do it again."

Judge McGoorty said to the jury:

"It is the first time in my many years on the bench that I have been compelled to criticize, even mildly, a jury for its verdict.

"But some remarks are necessary in this case. Gentlemen, apparently you hold womanhood very lightly.

"I can't conceive, gentlemen, how you reached a verdict of the two years' term that you returned. He either should have been acquitted or a much heavier penalty inflicted."

At Gaskell's first trial, the jury was reported to have reached a verdict of guilty and 15 years' imprisonment when one of them jumped to his death out of the jury room window, causing a mistrial.

DECISION IS BACKED BY SENATE

By FRASER EDWARDS,
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—In spite of his reluctance Arturo M. Elias, Mexican consul general at New York, not only will he have to appear before the special senate committee, but he will be required to testify regarding the documentary evidence to support the charge of a plot hatched by President Calles of Mexico in ordering money paid United States senators, which was revealed by the Hearst newspapers.

All the powers of the Senate will be mustered if necessary to enforce this decision, reached yesterday at a secret meeting of the committe, headed by Senator David A. Reed, of Pennsylvania, sponsor of the resolution of inquiry.

Any doubt in the minds of the members of the committee as to the power of the Senate to compel the attendance and elicit the testimony of Elias was cleared up by an informal opinion from the State Department. It held that the Senate was clearly within its rights to subpena Elias and force him to testify.

SUBPENA SERVED

The subpena for Elias was issued last Friday within an hour after the Senate unanimously ordered the investigation into the grave charges. It has been served on the Mexican consul general, who is a half-brother of President Calles, and Sergeant-at-arms David S. Barry has made a return to the committee.

The committee is prepared for a show-down in the event of any resistance on the part of Elias or intervention by the Mexican embassy. It was intimated that if necessary an actual arrest would be made and contempt proceedings instituted if Elias was steadfast in his refusal to testify.

spectively, of the United Mine Workers, led the union forces. Davis refused to give out a list of the operators present.

"I have called you together today for a friendly meeting for the purpose of a free interchange of ideas and a calm consideration of the matters still separating operators and miners—the sole aim being to ascertain if there is not some way in which you men here may reach some basis of settlement, or make some start in that direction," Davis said in opening the meeting.

"Let us all strive to reach some basis on which this deplorable situation may be successfully negotiated and terminated. If such is the case it will be not only for the good of the mine workers and mine owners, but also for the general well being of all the people in the towns and districts affected."

Davis said those engaged in the mining business should long before this have taken up jointly the economic problems involved in their industry.

"If operators and miners had taken advantage of the facts and findings of the Hammond Coal Commission and other information available, and had reached an agreement on matters needing legislative assistance, Congress would have gladly responded with help," he said.

"With the problems of the bituminous coal industry so well understood as they now are, no one has yet been able or willing to point the way out and but little interest has been paid to any suggestions or recommendations by government agencies or commissions. Is it any wonder that the industry is in a state of chronic unrest?"

Mrs. Latham, 124 Lincoln avenue, Edgewood, was injured last night when the Cleveland Flyer, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, eastbound, crashed into a truck near Atwater, O. Mrs. Latham was returning from a short honeymoon trip with her husband. Before her marriage Thursday she was Phyllis L. Newlands. She was well known for her oratorical work when a student at Pitt.

MEMORIES BLAZE AS SCHOOL BURNS

Among the spectators at the Grant School fire were a number of men and women who at one time might have danced with joy to see the old school house burn. But their emotions last night were the opposite, as memories of their childhood days loomed in the lurid flames which shot into the black sky.

The building, formerly the old Third Ward School, for more than 75 years was a landmark in Pittsburgh, and in the early days was attended by children of the majority of the prominent families in the city. In this school, for 33 years, Miss Martha J. Graham was principal and under her tutelage were Andrew W. Mellon, C. L. Magee, Willis F. McCook, Judge Richard W. Martin, Dr. Charles P. Reisfar, Mrs. Enoch Rauh, Grant McCargo and many other citizens who have achieved distinction in business and their professions.

The building was opened in 1852 under the principalship of Prof. James M. Pryer, who afterward became the first superintendent of the Allegheny county schools. At that time Sixth avenue, Grant street and the adjoining neighborhood was considered one of the best residence districts of the city and the school acquired the reputation under Prof. Pryor as one of the leading public schools in the country, many pupils being sent here from other districts, among the number being the boy "Andy" Mellon. Early directors of the school districts were Judges Ewing and Siagle, associates of Judge Thomas Mellon.

"The Grant School attained even greater fame when, in 1879, Miss Graham came there as its principal," said Mrs. Rauh. "I was a pupil in that year and was graduated from there. Afterward Miss Graham invited me to make the presentation addresses to succeeding graduating classes and as the years went on and the pupils grew into manhood and womanhood, I noted how many attained successful careers. This success we always attributed in a large measure to the example set by Miss Graham."

Miss Graham retired December 27, 1912, upon her seventy-third birthday and upon the completion of her golden anniversary as a teacher. On that occasion a reunion of the former pupils of the Grant School was held and an oil painting of Miss Graham was unveiled and since has been hanging in the school. Miss Graham received an annuity from the school board and a private pension from Andrew Carnegie. She died July 22, 1919, aged 79.

Dr. Reisfar relates the tradition that the school was named Grant after the street on which it stood, but Republicans in the ward exultantly claimed it for Gen. U. S. Grant when the Civil War leader was elected a Republican President. The Fifth Ward school board, strongly Democratic, retaliated when it built a new school in Webster avenue and named it in honor of Gen. Winfield S. Hancock, Democratic candidate against Garfield in the bitter presidential campaign of 1880.

LANDMARK SWEPT FROM ROOF TO CELLAR

This photograph, taken from the top of The Sun-Telegraph Building, graphically shows ruin wrought by flames when the Grant school, one of Pittsburgh's most historic structures, went up in flames last night. It is located between Sixth and Seventh avenues on Grant street. Six firemen were injured, fighting flames which threatened momentarily to spread.

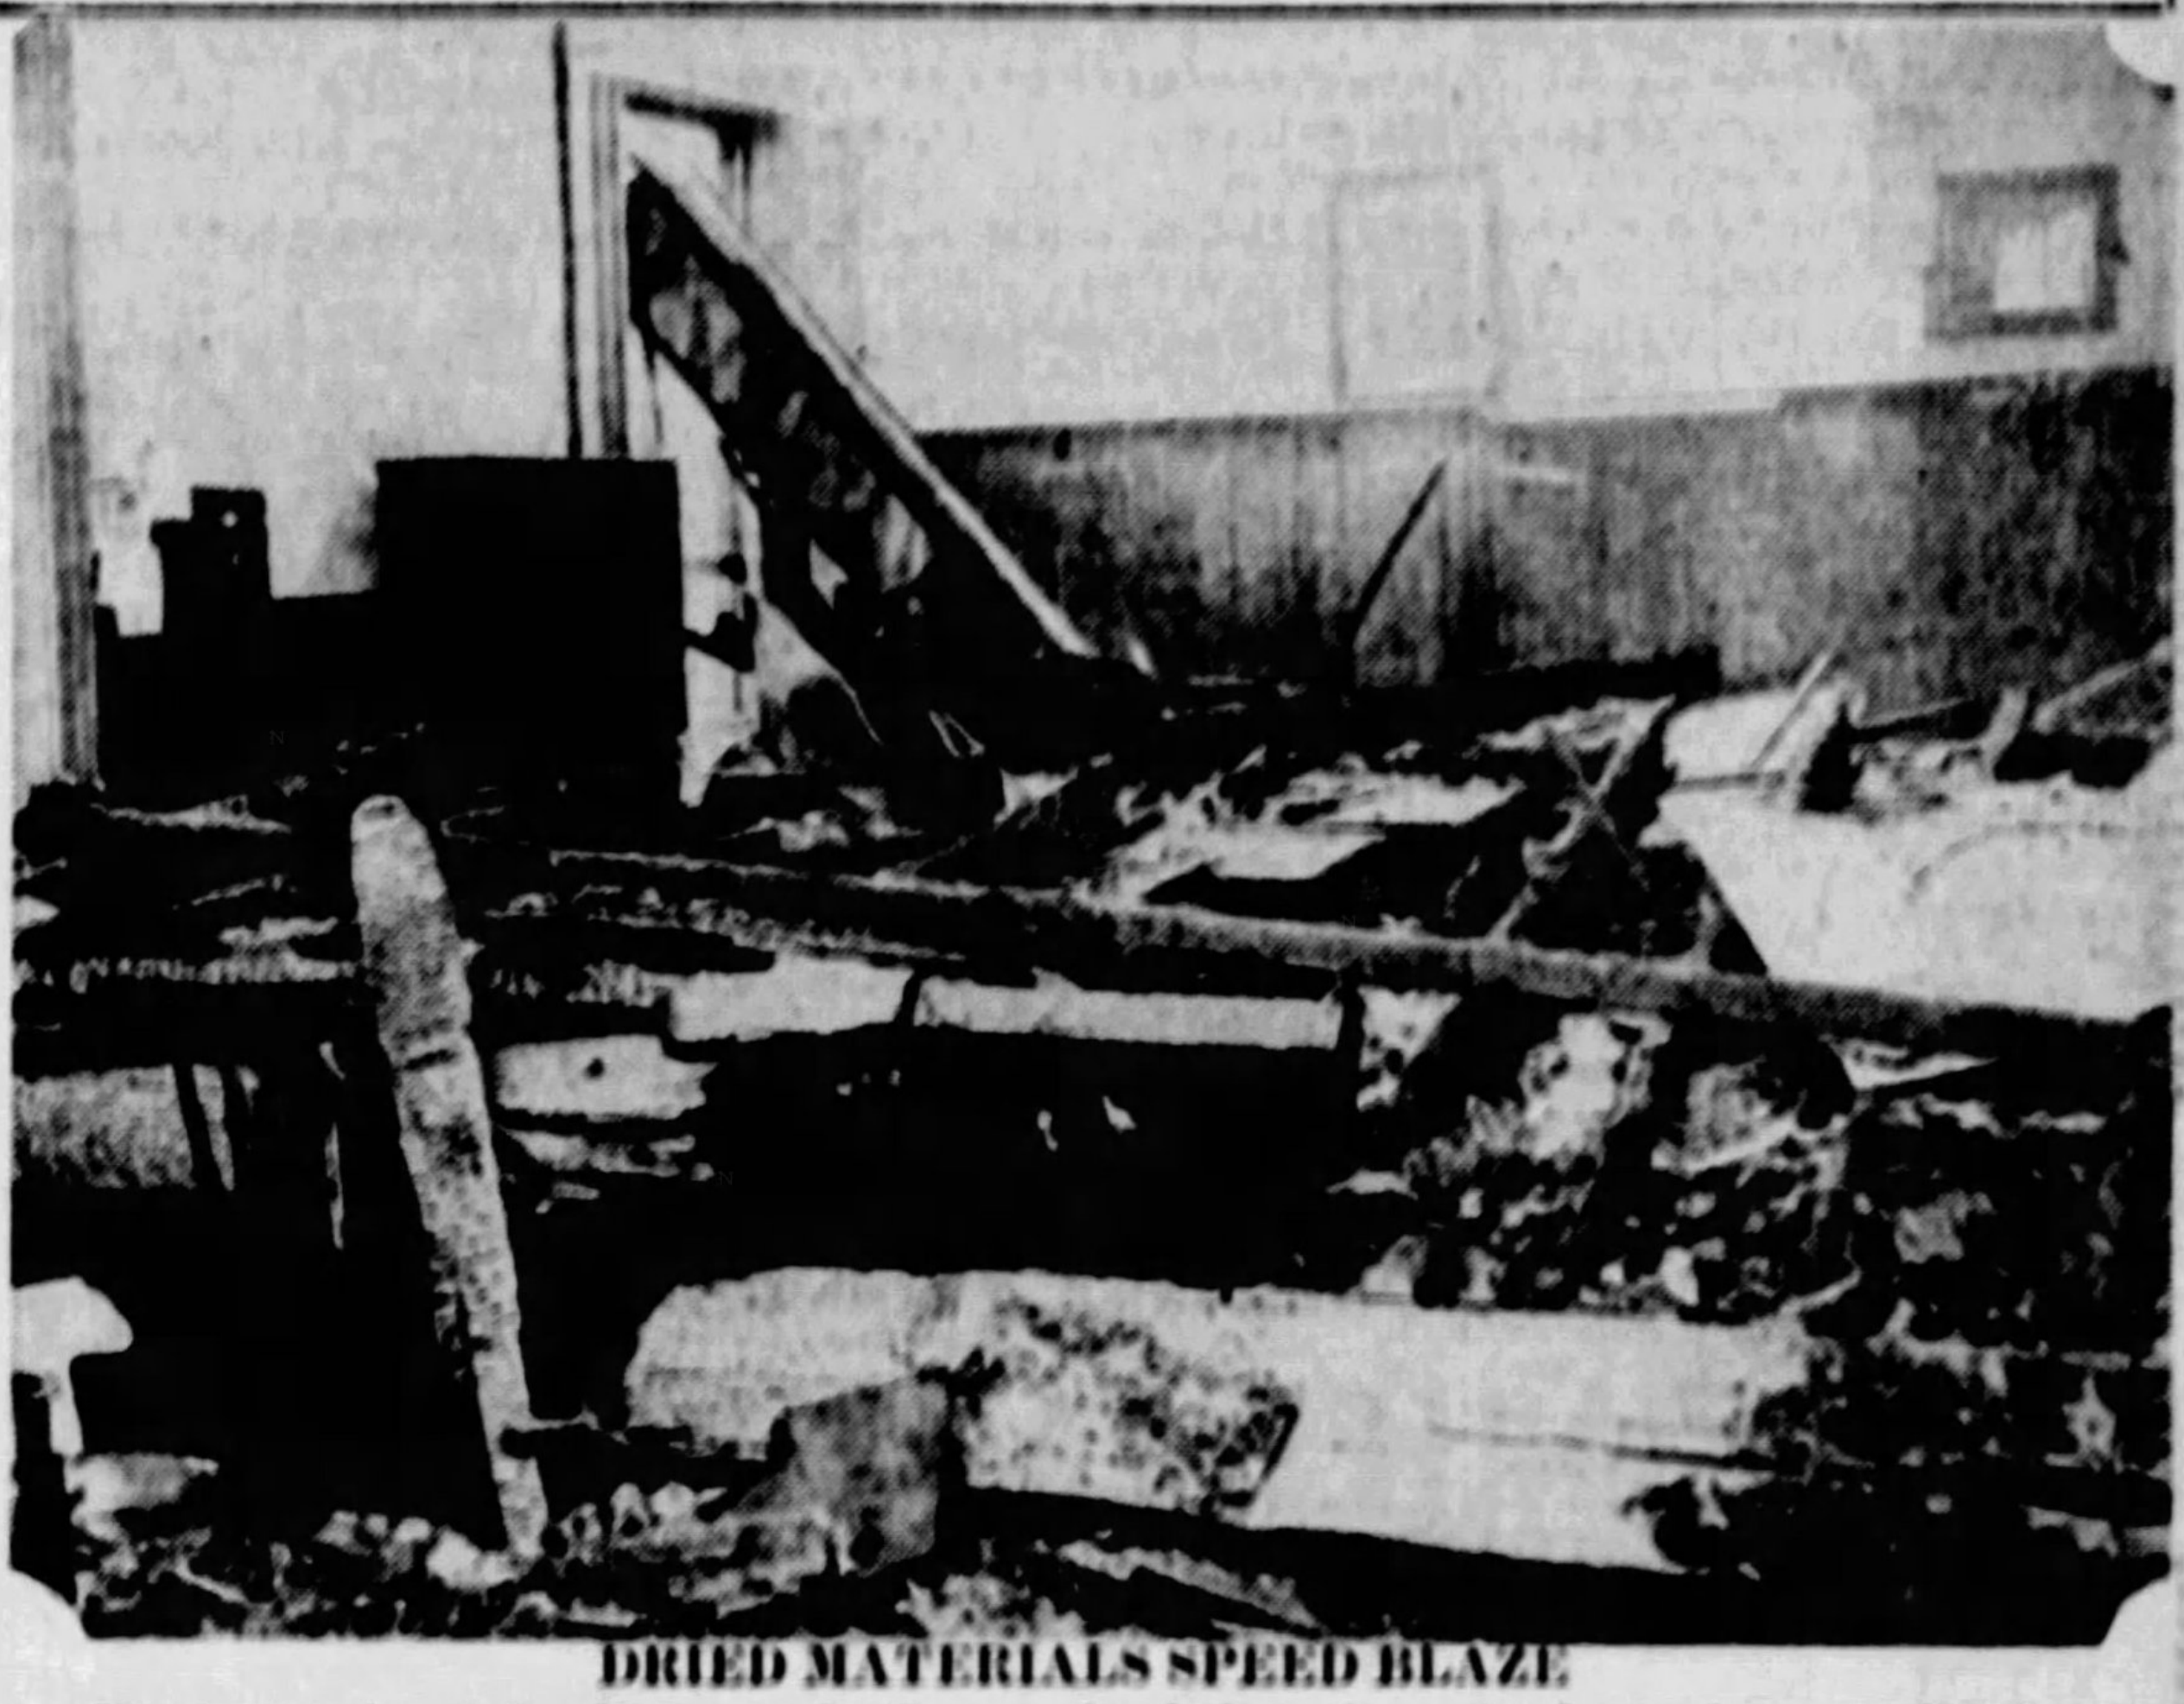
Miss Graham was the first principal of Grant school. Her portrait, of great historical value, was saved from destruction by firemen, when the school burned.



DRIED MATERIALS SPEED BLAZE

The dry interior of the old Grant schoolhouse burned out rapidly last night as firemen battled to check the flames which roared up the elevator shaft to the roof. Arrow shows wooden flues in the old building, believed to have caused the blaze.

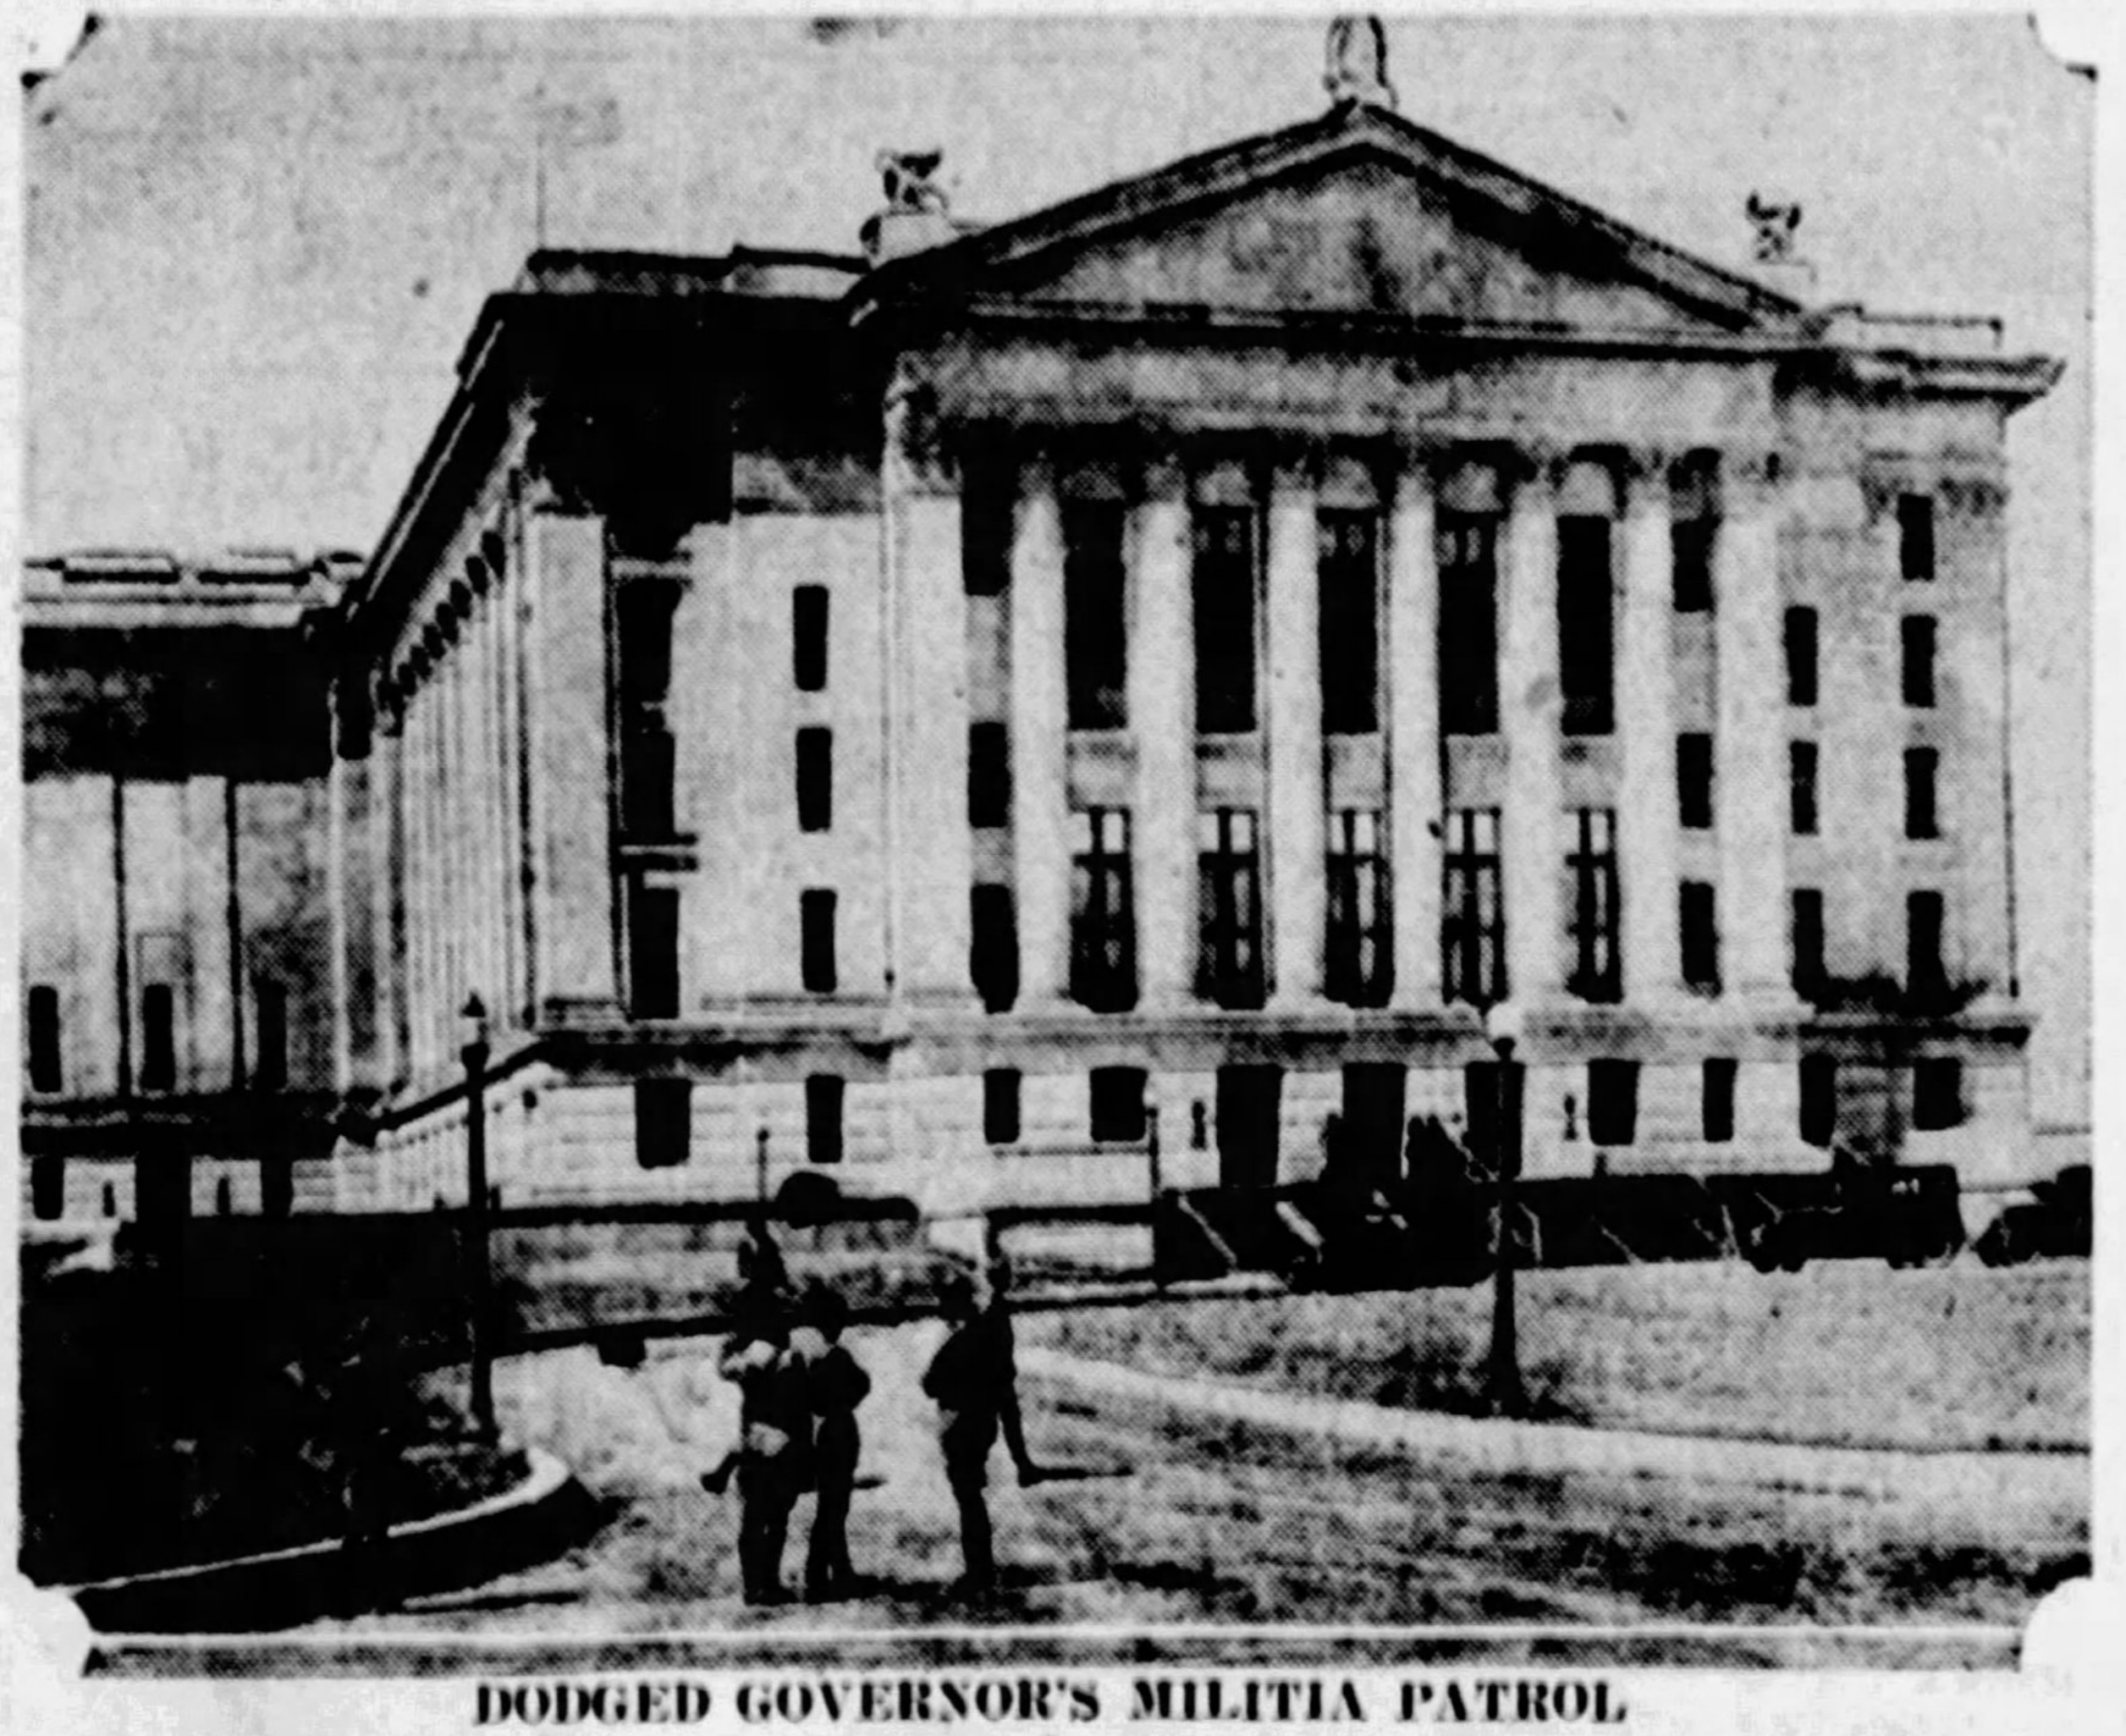
Oklahoma Governor Impeached

GOV. JOHNSTON

Meeting in an Oklahoma City hotel, the legislature of that state, today voted impeachment of Gov. Henry S. Johnston.



DODGED GOVERNOR'S MILITIA PATROL

The Legislature convened under difficulty after a game of hide-and-seek with national guard troops, which had been ordered to prevent their meeting, which was for the announced intention of impeaching Johnston. Troops, at the governor's order, patrolled the capitol and prevented sessions there Monday.

One Slain in Row Over Woman

Samuel White, 30, a Negro, was shot and killed early this morning during an argument over a woman in a boarding house at 1312 Bedford avenue, according to police.

John Loper, 30, Negro, of the Bedford avenue address, who, police say, fired the shots, was arrested by detectives. Bernice Coleman, 29, Negro, of the Bedford avenue address, over whom the argument is alleged to have started, is also under arrest.

According to police, White and Loper engaged in an argument involving the Coleman woman, when Loper, enraged, fired two shots into White's chest.

WESTON KILLS DOUBLE JEOPARDY DRY LAW

WESTON, W. Va., Dec. 13.—Because double prosecution would be possible under its provisions, city council last night rejected a proposed prohibition ordinance patterned after Clarksburg's city dry law.

Council deplored the practice of turning prohibition offenders over to state and federal officers, after they had been fined in the mayor's court.

LOVE SUIT ABSURD —THAW

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 13.—"Her charges are absurd. I never saw the girl. I don't know who she it. I never wrote her any letters, not a single one."

That was the answer of Harry K. Thaw, Pittsburgh millionaire, today when questioned about the $100,000 breach of promise suit filed here against him by Miss Forest Hope Wall, of Culver City, a former film extra girl.

MET HIM ON LOCATION

Miss Wall's complaint said she met a man representing himself as Thaw while she was "on location" with a film company at Laguna Beach, Cal. This was in May, 1923, she asserted.

Thaw denied that he was in California at that time. He contented himself by saying "he was some other place."

Newspaper records indicate that he was in the Pennsylvania State Hospital at that time, except for brief visits to his mother.

The former extra girl's complaint set forth that the man alleging to be Thaw told her that she was too young to be working in pictures. She was 17 years old at the time, she declared.

The complaint said further that Thaw placed a marriage ring on her finger, telling her to wear it always. She is still wearing it and is still willing to marry him, she declared.

TELLS OF LETTERS

Miss Wall said that Thaw wrote to her in May, 1926, asking her to come to his home for the ceremony. Her complaint said that she and her mother and a younger brother went East and made an unsuccessful attempt to see Thaw at his country home near Stephenson, Va., the girl said that Thaw had given her about $500 at different times.

Thaw arrived here about a week ago, to transact motion picture business, he explained. He was accompanied by two young women, Anita Rivers, of New York, and Susana Hughes, of Lexington, Ky., both of whom have film ambitions.

Girls Keep Legs Warm--Here Is How:

By Universal Service

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Girls keep their legs warm in winter, while apparently wearing delicate silken hose. That was an established fact, but the "how" of it was a mystery until it was explained by a women's wear store here:

"They're wearing a subterfuge for silk, a sheer lisle hose or Angora wool, flesh color, made with or without feet, over which is worn the regular silk stocking. The effect will fool the average bachelor."

MANNINGTON, W. Va., Dec. 13.—G. A. Heck has rigged up a home-made broadcasting station for relaying programs from larger stations and has installed loud speakers in a number of homes and business houses. His station designation is HECK.

TROOPERS PROBING WRECK

Definitely establishing the fact that the Baltimore & Ohio Detroit Limited wreck Sunday night at Guffey Station was caused by vandals, railroad officials and the Pennsylvania state police today are seeking the motive which actuated the crime. It is believed that the act was committed in revenge against a member of the train crew who was injured in the accident and arrests are looked for soon. The six persons injured are recovering. Charles H. Wheeler, the baggagemaster, was killed.

E. A. Peck, general superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio, said today that bolts had been removed from the rails and a splice-plate, allowing the rails to spread. The investigation will be continued under the direction of the railroad officials and representatives of the Interstate Commerce Commission, he said.

NEAR FLOOD MARK DUE HERE

Rain of the last two days was expected to raise local rivers to a stage of between 20 and 21 feet this afternoon, according to Forecaster W. S. Brotzman. Although the rain was forecast to continue tonight, the rivers were expected to fall locally. Flood stage is 25 feet.

Light rain was falling at the headwaters of both the Monongahela and Allegheny rivers, but upriver stages were reported as showing a decline.

Rain was general from New England to the lower Mississippi valley. The low pressure area responsible for the precipitation, was centered over the Plains states this morning, and was expected to move eastward tonight.

Alimony Club Cold; Fears Mates May Sue State

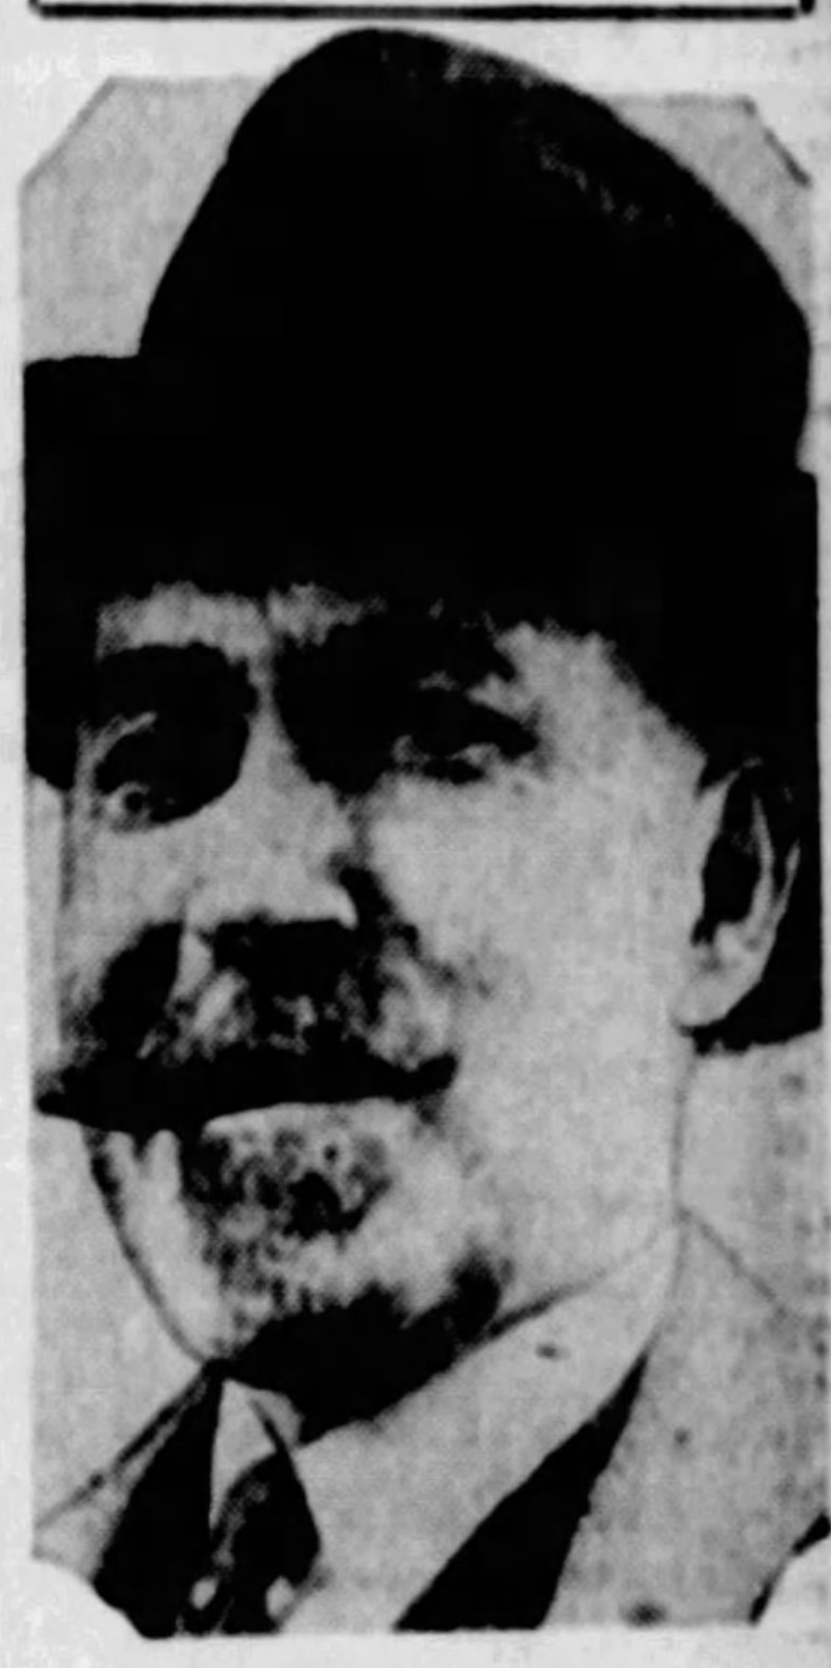
By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Fourteen members of the Alimony Club in Ludlow Street Jail have asked Gov. Smith to see that they get more heat.

"Prisoners liable to pneumonia and taxpayers liable to heavy damage suits," said a telegram sent the Governor by Robert G. Ecob, chairman of the Alimony Payers' Protective Association. "Vindictive wives, ex-wives and their shyster lawyers have excellent grounds for legal action, and the taxpayers will be paying the alimony. Our experience indicates that these people will stop at nothing to get money."

Jail officials denied the allimony delinquents were suffering. The club consists of men who prefer jail to paying alimony.

Cut Spending!



JOHN FIELDS

The unpopular policy of keeping expenditures down as one way to solve the farm problem was advocated before the American Farm Congress by John Fields, vice president of the Federal Land Bank of Wichita, Kan. Instead of howling him down, the congress elected him president.

MARKED BILLS TRAP 2 DOPE SUSPECTS

Two "marked" $5 bills figured in two different complaints on which Mary Rose Dawson, alias "Baby," Negro, residing in rear of 1533 Foreside place, and Andrew Chementi, proprietor of a confectionery store at 1518 Clark street, were held for trial in the Federal District Court by the United States commissioner, on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act.

Government narcotic agents testified that a government informer purchased 12 grains of morphine from Miss Dawson with two "marked" bills, which, they said, were afterward found in possession of Chementi, when they raided his store. According to the testimony, Miss Dawson bought 20 grains of morphine at Chementi's store, soon after the alleged transaction with the government informer. Pending the trials Chementi was released under $2,500 bond and the woman under $1,500 bond.

BARE 3RD WARD FRAUDS

Double markings favoring the candidacy of George B. Shields for county commissioner have been found on 290 ballots in the Twelfth district of the Third ward, a report for the special committee recounting impounded ballots charged yesterday. Except for the markings, the entire count in the district is accurate, the committee reported.

SLIDE BLOCKS STREET

WANT TO SELL COAL COMPANY

Appointment as a receiver for the Harmon Creek Coal Company, operating extensive coal mines in Washington county, is asked for in a bill of equity filed in Common Pleas Court today by the Colonial Trust Company of Pittsburgh as trustee. The case involves an unpaid balance of $1,125,000 on $1,500,000 mortgage bonds issued in 1923.

The plaintiff asks that the Colonial Trust Company as trustee be permitted to sell the property and that the defendant be required and directed to join in making deeds for the property.

FREE PATROLMAN IN KILLING

A coroner's jury today returned a verdict of justifiable homicide at the inquest of Louis Lefkowitz, 36, of 3808 Forward avenue, patrolman of No. 4 station, who shot and killed Sterling Hudson, Negro, of 517 Soho street, on November 29. The shooting occurred at Center avenue and Craig street and Hudson died shortly afterward in the Homeopathic Hospital.

Hudson, with a companion, was riding in a taxicab when the driver, believing that he recognized the men as two of a band of robbers, called for help. Lefkowitz responded and fired at Hudson after the latter disregarded a command to halt. The bullet lodged in the Negro's chest.

Busy Colony of Joy Is Toy Mission

A busy colony in the joyous empire of toyland is the Toy Mission, with its great population of dolls. Thousands of dolls are at the mission quarters, Ross and Diamond streets, and each day brings hundreds more. They are waiting for the magic word of Santa Claus who will send them on errands of cheer, like good fairies, into the homes of poor little girls in Pittsburgh.

And all about the dolls are doll houses, doll carriages, doll automobiles, as well as all manner of playthings entering into the lives of children. Nor in this great array of gifts have the boys been forgotten. The doll colony and its busy scenes are typical also of the goings-on among all the toys brought to the mission for distribution among deserving children. Thousands of toys donated by the generous people of the city have been repaired and repainted and are in first-class shape.

"We still need more dolls, more toys and more books," said Manager George L. Bond. "We are just beginning to realize the demand that will be made upon us and never before have there been so many families needing the assistance of the Mission in providing a Merry Christmas for their children. We are looking for gifts through the Sun-Telegraph Auxiliary and hope they will be given to Sun-Tele agencies."

School nurse says all girls should know this

TALKING to a roomful of high school girls on personal hygiene, an experienced district nurse said: "One of the basic rules of health for girls is to keep the system functioning naturally at all times. Normal exercise and diet habits should be encouraged. But when necessary there's no harm in taking nujol, since it works mechanically and can't disturb the normal functions of any organ of the body. Particularly with girls, there are times when nujol should always be taken, Take a spoonful every night for a few days. It's a thoroughly safe and harmless method. It won't cause distress or gas pains or griping."

Not Like Medicine

Nujol is different from any other substance. It contains no drugs or medicine. It can be taken safely no matter how you are feeling because it is so pure and harmless, and works so easily. Every woman should keep a bottle on hand. Every druggist has this remarkable substance. Get the genuine. Perfected by the famous Chemical Products Division of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey. Look for the Nujol bottle with the label on the back that you can read right through the bottle.

The Doctor's Verdict

This case is critical. These colds when neglected often develop into pneumonia.

Doctors recommend hot Bulgarian Herb (Blood) Tea to break up a cold quickly, because the rich vitalizing herb juices heat up the chilled blood, increase your power and resistance, and purge dangerous germs from the system. Don't fool with a cold.

Ask your druggist for Bulgarian Herb Tea today. Costs but a few cents.

Elves Replace Santa For Volunteers

Christmas elves—tall, short, thin and stout—have replaced the bewhiskered Santa Claus on downtown streets so far as the Volunteers of America are concerned. While Santa Claus busies himself making toys in the Volunteers' downtown mission, he is represented on the streets by these clean-shaven aides who carry to him the contributions received for the unfortunate.

The Elves, dressed in red and white, with buskins, have chimney tops bearing the legend of Christmas joy for the poor. They are as unique a looking company as Santa Claus could be expected to have. Santa will work at his toys right up until Christmas eve when he will make a triple appearance, at the Day Nursery, at the Volunteers' downtown mission in the Volunteers' building, and at the Volunteers' East End mission, 4623 Penn avenue.

For many years, Santa himself, instead of his elves, appeared on the streets in behalf of the poor who are cared for by the Volunteers. During the World War, a little fellow, with his mother, went up to a Volunteer Santa Claus and asked only for the safe return of his father, overseas as an American soldier. The boy's father came back home. That Christmas, father, mother and son looked up this particular Santa Claus and gave him a handsome donation for his chimney top.

The other day the son, now a good-sized fellow, had the pleasure of seeing his boyhood friend of the street corner without the long whiskers. As an elf he appeared with his own beardless face. The young man stepped up to him, on same street corner, and shook hands, then dropped the usual Christmas contribution of the family in the chimney top.

"In all these years, old top," said the young man, "I've never known what you really looked like. Glad, at last, to see your face. You certainly did cheer me up several years ago when dad was overseas. You can always count on our home's doing its bit toward making a success of the Volunteers' Christmas fund."

AUTO HITS MAN STEAM BLINDS

Stepping from behind a steam shovel into the path of an automobile in Brownsville avenue, near Carson street, Clarence Durham, 18, of 301 Carson street, was run down and injured seriously. At the St. Joseph's Hospital, where he was taken by Lee Frye, 55, of 416 Penn avenue, driver of the machine, it was said he had suffered fractures of the right arm and left leg.

The steam from the shovel is thought to have hidden the approaching automobile. Frey was released on his own recognizance by police who reported the accident was unavoidable.

"The Fairy Ball"

OUR Christmas windows hold unusual allurement for the holiday crowds. The great corner window, particularly, is the object of extraordinary interest.

It reveals Her Fairy Majesty in jeweled crown and sweeping court train, with glistening wand, standing in gleaming splendor on the threshold of the ballroom. She is attended by her winged fairies-in-waiting, and her humble subjects the rising moon and the stars. Her reindeer chargers with prismed crystal trappings, stand with fore feet off the ground in arrested motion.

Two mortal folk, a little boy and girl, have by some slip of magic penetrated the portals of Fairyland and stand transfixed in astonishment at the grandeur of the spectacle.

The whole presents with Barrie-esque delicacy and charm a realistic visualization of that most wonderful of all childish worlds—Fairyland. It may be seen by night, as well as by day. Every child should have the pleasure of seeing it.

"MEET-RUN" LEGISLATURE IMPEACHES GOVERNOR

CHARGES GO TO SENATE TODAY

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Dec. 13.—Members of the Oklahoma Legislature, who have been playing the game of hide and seek from state militia in an effort to meet and vote upon impeachment charges against Gov. Henry S. Johnston, met at the breakfast hour today and impeached the executive.

The meeting was held at the Huckins Hotel, in the downtown section. O. P. Hill, speaker of the House of Representatives, announced he had been informed the Senate would meet later and receive a committee from the House with the charges. Members of the Senate last night met in caucus and pledged full support of the House.

Chief Justice Fred T. Johnson of the State Supreme Court also was impeached by the breakfast hour session.

The House adjourned at 7:30 o'clock to meet later at a place unannounced, and preparations went forward for quick organization of a board of managers to present the impeachment charges to the Senate, which already has resolved into a high court of impeachment.

Meanwhile the State Supreme Court had not acted upon a temporary injunction granted Gov. Johnson in District Court yesterday against the members meeting at any place within the state to impeach any state official.

ON MEDIATION BOARD

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—President Coolidge yesterday appointed G. Wallace W. Hanger, of Washington, D. C., a member of the National Board of Mediation.

5,000 Comic Books Allay Shortage

The conspicuous absence of "All the Funny Folks" from the Pittsburgh district has been remedied.

This morning, 5,000 of the delayed master comic books arrived, and will be distributed during the day to news dealers and news stands. Thousands more are expected to be added to this allotment within a few days. Every prospective purchaser is assured of one copy or as many as desired.

Arrangements have been made whereby the dealers will take orders for the story of the comic folks, in the event that they meet another sell-out. These will be filled, the publishers of the funny book promise. And the filling will be done in time for Christmas presentation.

The unheralded demand in the tri-state district for "All the Funny Folks" is believed to be due to the word-of-mouth approval the cartoon story has received. Not only the children have enjoyed this 112-page book of jingling stories and its 500 illustrations, but the adults have appreciated it as well. Its inexpensiveness—only 69 cents—has placed it within everyone's reach. Some of the dealers who are handling the book are:

W. & J. GETS LIBRARY OF LATE DR. WILSON

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 13.—Several hundred volumes from the library of the late Dr. T. D. M. Wilson, of this city, have been presented to the Biological Library of Washington and Jefferson College by Mrs. Wilson. Dr. Wilson was a graduate of the college.

Modern Ben Hur Didn't Want Race, But Got It

A modern Ben Hur started out for a drive in his chariot, Ben didn't expect the drive to be a race. But it was. Also, he did expect to be in the chariot at the end of the drive. But he wasn't.

Ben, otherwise Bill Hertzinger, of 301 Mount Joy road, took a team of spirited bays and a chariot to the streets of the North Side. His purpose wasn't vengeance or the winning of big stakes. He merely wished to advertise the motion picture, "Ben Hur," playing at a North Side theater. A start was made down Beaver avenue, when the horses, wishing to emulate their brothers in the arena, started a dash that threw Hertzinger from the chariot and continued down the street.

Hertzinger flagged a passing automobile and gave chase. He succeeded in clutching the reins, but could not retain his grip. The team continued on until Thomas Morley, motor policeman, gave chase on his motorcycle. He succeeded in bringing the bays to a halt at Western and Allegheny avenues, more than a mile from the start.

PLEA AUTO "SHIMMIED" FAILS TO SAVE DRIVER

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 13.—Not liquor, but a shimmy, caused by worn bushings, caused the auto of John Slavan, of Ehrenfeld, Fayette county, to zig-zag down the road, he explained to Judge James I. Brownson, when arraigned on a charge of driving a car while intoxicated. He said he had pleaded guilty as the quickest way out of his difficulty. Judge Brownson was skeptical, fined him $200 and sent him to jail for 30 days.

BILLY SUNDAY TO TALK IN NEW CASTLE DEC. 21

Max Goldberg, a teacher, of Spruce street, McKeesport, in his suit for divorce against his wife, Bertha Goldberg, testified that a few months after his marriage in 1925 his wife requested that they give up their own home and live with her parents. This the husband refused to do, and the wife left him, never to return, though the husband often entreated his wife to come back to him.

SHORT TALKS BY THOUGHTFUL MOTHERS

A California (Long Beach) Mother speaks: "Only a mother who has passed through anxious hours of fear of croup can appreciate our feeling of gratitude toward Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. It stopped Junior's dreadful hoarse croupy cough the very first night he took it and it was a great relief to see him drop into a quiet sleep. Since then, we have many times proven its reliability for coughs and colds." Good also for whooping cough. Sold everywhere.

Bird House Hustlers Have 4 Days Left

The New Reader contest of The Sun-Telegraph Bird House Club has four more days to run,

With the last subscription blank in and checked, the winners of the 28 cash prizes will be known and the test will be over as far as these cash awards are concerned,

The 60-cent bonuses, however, will continue with the receipt of each subscription after that. But there will be no additional prizes offered.

Many members of the Bird House Club have entered into the spirit of the contest and have made exceptional salesmen. They are urged by J. M. Aylward, manager of the club, to send in their subscription as soon as possible before Saturday, the closing day. This will allow the counting to be made and the prizes awarded without delay.

Some contestants yesterday obtained new blanks, and hope to wind up the week with a big showing. There are more blanks for those wanting them. Phone Grant 6501 or write the manager of the club, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

But remember, rush in your sales before Saturday.

TAX PROTESTS GIVEN COUNCIL

Several communications protesting against increased assessments or taxes have been received by Council, one from Charles S. Smith, contractor, offering "to recite in detail the waste and extravagance I have seen, if it is desired."

R. M. Williams of the Williams Gauge Company protested that the assessment of his plant was 25 per cent higher than the purchase price two years ago. He wrote that the company had received two invitations to move elsewhere and that it was time for Council "to consider the question as pertaining to the smaller manufacturing concerns of the city who are in competition with like concerns who have advantages through cheaper property valuations."

WAR SAVING STAMPS FAKIRS GO TO PEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The final echo of an elaborate plan to prey on war-time patriotism by flooding the country with counterfeit war savings stamps was heard in the United States Supreme Court, when the court ruled, in effect, that Joseph V. Zottarelli and Nicholas Salupa, devisers of the plot, must go to the penitentiary. The two were convicted in the Federal Court of Northern Ohio. They had appealed for a review.

MAKE U. S. BATTLESHIPS IMMUNE TO GAS ATTACK

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Eight American battleships have been made immune to gas attack during the year and all other craft are being similarly equipped, the Navy Bureau of Construction and Repair declared in its annual report. In addition to general changes in the ventilating system and issue of gas masks, all central and plotting stations have been equipped with air reconditioning machines.

STATE GRANGE HEAD PLEADS FOR FARM RELIEF

Assails Pennsylvania Taxation System

By International News Service

ERIE, Pa., Dec. 13.—Declaring that only co-operation can bring desired results to the farmer, J. Audley Boak, New Castle, master of the Pennsylvania State Grange, addressed the grange at the opening of its fifty-fifth annual session here today.

"When the American people awaken to the fact that agriculture is the parent industry and that the prosperity of the country depends upon the prosperity of agriculture and the farmer makes up his mind to work out his own salvation, joining the Grange and co-operating, we will get some farm relief," Boak told the Grangers.

Many a promising Grange has been rent asunder by jealousy, he declared, adding that the only remedy for this situation is fraternity.

Although the State Legislature does not meet until next year, Boak admonished the Grangers to keep alive the interest in a legislative program and to lend the Grange's legislative committee all assistance it may require. Making direct reference to prospects of agricultural relief, the Grange master said the farmers "may get some relief through legislation, but the real source of relief is through organization and co-operation."

"Relief must come largely from our own efforts," he added.

Boak expressed dissatisfaction with the present system of taxation in Pennsylvania, but said "an equalization of taxation cannot be made until the exemption of taxation is removed from manufacturing corporations." At present, he maintained, Pennsylvania tax laws are so written that the heavy burden rests upon him who is least able to pay.

Boak then appealed to the Grangers to "defend the Constitution of the United States. If we would put forth half the effort to promulgate the virtues of the Eighteenth Amendment that its enemies have to discredit it, we would not need to fear for its modification."

Thought Dry Law Was to End, He Tells Judge

Kazimer Bielski, former proprietor of a saloon at 554 Braddock avenue, Braddock, entering a plea before Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker to a charge of violating the national prohibition law, said he had bought the saloon believing the Volstead act soon would be repealed. Informed that the saloon had been raided three times and Bielski charged with a number of sales of liquor, the court fined Bielski $300 despite his plea that he had lost heavily on the purchase.

Swiftness of Instinctive Action

WHEN a horse is struck with a whip it switches the spot with its tail. The horse knows it is a whip and not an insect, but the reflexive muscles instinctively switch before the horse can telegraph the truth to its brain.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.
U.S. Senator from New York

St. Vitus Dance and Its Treatment.

EVERYBODY knows a lot about the muscles. But do you know you have two kinds of muscles?

There are some which work automatically. Entirely without your knowledge or conscious effort these muscles do their work.

They are called involuntary muscles.

A striking example is the heart. This organ is made up of muscles. They contract and relax without your aid and in spite of anything you might do to prevent it. Asleep or awake, year in and year out, your heart—Old Faithful—goes on about its business.

Most of our muscles are of a different sort—the voluntary kind. They never act except when we order them to do so. They are entirely within the control of the will.

Shut your hand, clench it tightly. See the knuckles grow white, so great is the pressure of these voluntary muscles. Open the hand, spread out the fingers—your will to do this is all that is needed. The muscles respond to your desires.

So long as you are in normal health the voluntary muscles will do as you command. When they fail to answer your summons, something is wrong.

Some children are afflicted by the loss of control of certain muscles. The face may be drawn into horrid grimaces. The head is drawn to one side, the eyes wink rapidly, one shoulder is raised and the arm twitches. An onlooker is shocked at the antics of the sufferer.

Of course the child is unhappy over the effects of muscular contractions which he cannot control. He is ashamed to face his playmates.

This particular form of disturbance in the voluntary muscles is known to the doctors as "chorea." By the laity it is called St. Vitus' dance."

About one-fifth of the nervous diseases which children have is this particular ailment. Children from 5 to 15 are the ones most commonly afflicted. It is "outgrown" usually and rarely continues into adult life.

Chorea is a city disease. Of course it may be found anywhere but the city poor are factors in its production. Overstudy, worry and excessive fatigue are in the background of many cases.

Bad teeth, diseased tonsils, rheumatism, measles, whooping cough and scarlet fever—any one of these may be the beginning of an undermining of the nervous system. St. Vitus' dance may follow.

If the teeth are defective or the tonsils diseased the doctor will give attention to their condition. When these troubles are removed, it is very probable the child will improve rapidly. Not only will the nervous disturbance disappear, but also the general health will be better.

Eyestrain cannot be disregarded as among the exciting causes of chorea. Properly fitted glasses may do a lot of good.

The child must not be laughed at or ridiculed. If he cannot be protected from this misery, he must be taken from school. Rest and fresh air are important. So are good food, regular exercise and entertainment.

Your Smile and Your Teeth

Anna Q. Nilsson

Don't Believe Your Teeth are "Naturally" Off Color

DENTAL science has found a new way to lighten cloudy teeth. A way, thus, that often changes a person's whole appearance. Your teeth, it's been learned, are not naturally off color—simply coated with a film that absorbs discolorations from food, smoking, etc.

You can feel that film now with your tongue; a slippery sort of coating. It is there largely because your present dentifrice is failing in its duty. Ordinary dentifrices don't fight film successfully.

Now a new-type dentifrice has been discovered. A film-removing paste called Pepsodent. Famous $100,000 stars of the movies use it before going on a scene. That's why movie smiles are so gleaming white.

Leading dentists urge it because it protects the teeth and firms the gums. Film breeds bacteria that invite tooth troubles and pyorrhea. It imperils your teeth, your gums; and makes your smile unattractive.

Clear it off. See the amazing difference made. Get Pepsodent at any drug store. Or send the coupon for test tube free.

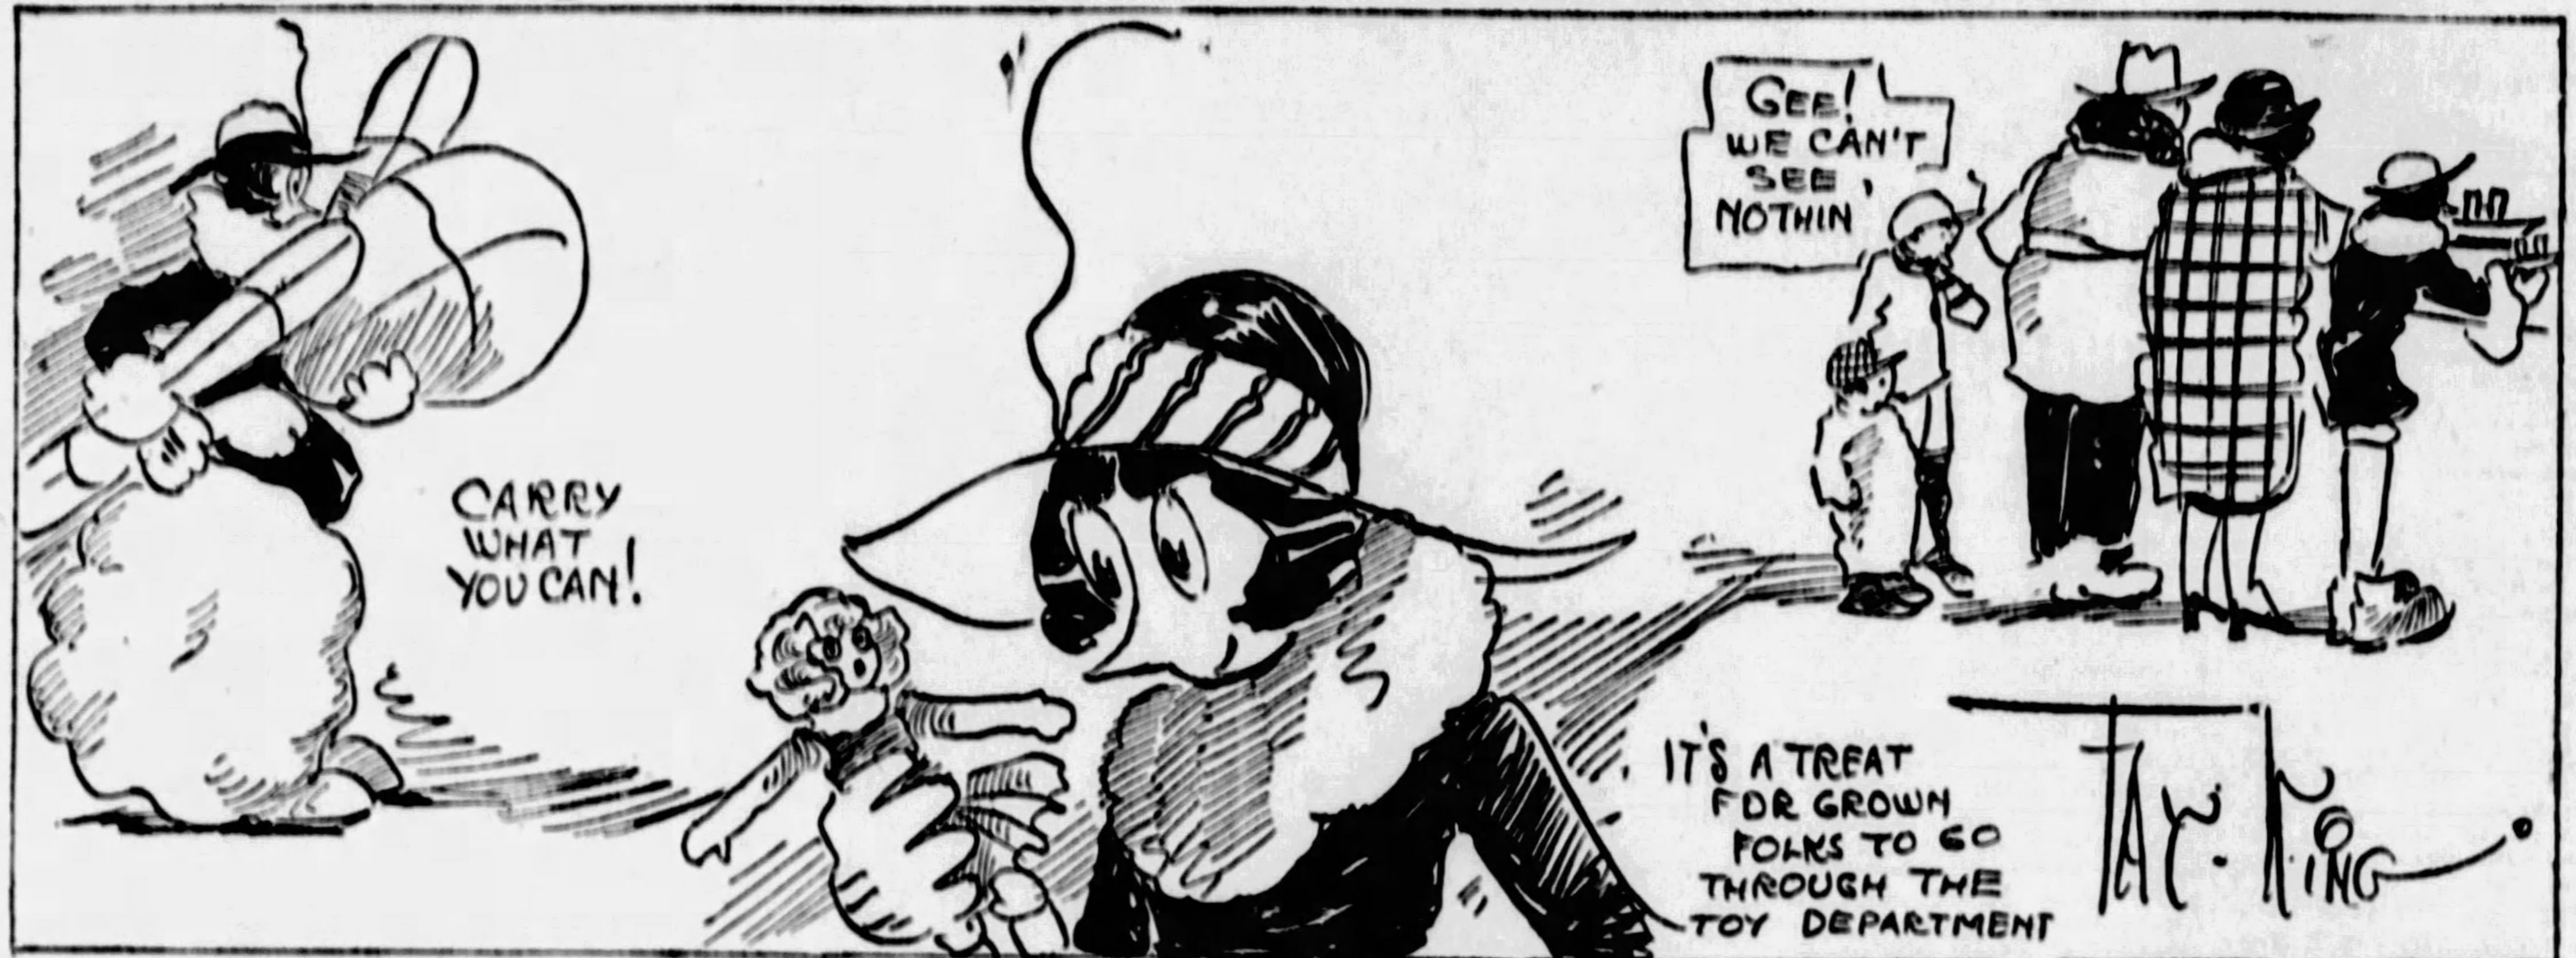
Fay King Finds Oldsters Keenest Xmas Fans



CARRY WHAT YOU CAN!
GEE! WE CAN'T SEE NOTHIN'
IT'S A TREAT FOR GROWN FOLKS TO GO THROUGH THE TOY DEPARTMENT
FAY KING

By FAY KING

THESE are tough days for the kids who go to the toy departments of the big stores to see Santa Claus and get a peep at all the pretties!

The grown ups have got all the front rows and Uncle Wilbur and Aunt Julia are having the time of their lives sailing boats in the big tank!

You also can see poor little Willie trying to work his way up through the jam of 6-footers blocking his view of the electric railway.

Old Dr. Curem is lost in the joy of building skyscrapers with the steel construction toys, and you'll never get Grandpa Biff home until he has played all the new educational games!

I dropped into one of the toy departments the other day to have a look around, and the first thing I knew I was wondering if I couldn't do my work on the cute little office desks they have now for kids.

I saw toy dinner sets and electric irons, not to mention wardrobe trunks and clothes baskets that would just suit me for light housekeeping.

It certainly is great to trot through the stores during the holidays and see everything so prettily arranged.

And remember the kindest thing you can do at this time of the year is carry all you can. Those ladies who so love to purchase one pair of stockings or a spool of thread and have them sent C. O. D. should have a heart during this holiday rush.

It's all right to enjoy giving the neighbors a thrill by having the swanky delivery wagon of a store drive up and deliver your package from the notion counter, but remember the delivery men are working under a great strain now and you certainly should carry all small packages, pay cash, and have plenty of small change on hand.

You'll not only save their time but your own temper.

The Happiest Human Beings In The World

GEORGE A. DORSEY, who wrote "Why We Behave Like Human Beings" tells of a land where every day is Christmas and the Fourth of July.

THESE subjects show the variety of appeal in the January issue of Hearst's International-Cosmopolitan.

They are chosen at random from twenty-three items which range from novels by Peter B. Kyne and Meredith Nicholson to philosophical humor by O. O. McIntyre and Arnold Bennett.

There is never any "some more of the same" in Cosmopolitan. It differs from month to month, from page to page.

It is built on the theory that it is read by the largest audience of intelligent readers in the world, and that those readers not only are interested in everything worth while, but that they aren't interested in anything else.

Is Marriage Going Into The Discard?

WILL DURANT, author of the "Story of Philosophy," is afraid it is, but he has a startling remedy that may make worried fathers reach for their check-books.

Did You Know that the Wife of a PRESIDENT of the UNITED STATES Was Openly Accused of Bigamy?

BEHIND that accusation there is one of the tenderest, sweetest love stories ever told. The story of a man of cool courage on the field of honor, of relentless daring in battle, a statesman in buckskin, a strategist of the backwoods, but withal a great lover—a one-woman man, if ever such a man lived. Meredith Nicholson presents him to you understandingly and humanly in his new novel

Home-made Supply of Fine Cough Syrup

Better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily prepared.

If you combined the valuable properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real healing power as there is in this home-made syrup, easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup, or clarified honey, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the throat tickle and heals the irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and it is splendid for bronchitis, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, which has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PINEX for Coughs

"Not What It Used to Be," Opera Stars Say

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY.

Three artists—singing folk—sat around a breakfast table here and decided that opera "ain't what she used to be."

They were Marie Sundelius, lyric soprano; Henri Scott, bass-baritone, and Alfredo Valenti, ass, here to star in "The King's Henchman" tonight at Syria Mosque. And they decided:

"Ten years ago an American with an American name would have been an almost complete failure in opera. Now, that condition has all passed away and nationality makes little or no difference. If there is a difference, it is in favor of the American."

Miss Sundelius was born in Sweden and came here at the age of 9. She has never studied in Europe. Scott is a Pennsylvanian, born, raised and educated in his home state and the father of five live youngsters.

Valenti is an Englishman who made his debut in Italy in 1914 and changed his name from Kaufmann to Valenti, because at that time a plain name would have been artistic suicide.

Their opinions are so much the same that it is unnecessary to quote them separately. Miss Sundelius tells of the hard luck of the trail-blazers of opera in America and smiles when she thinks of the ease one of our boys or girls have now if they sincerely want to become singers and have the talent.

Valenti says if he hadn't become so well known under an Italian name he would change it to a home-cooking one and urges young Americans to get away from the idea that they have to have a "spaghetti moniker" in order to succeed.

Scott is such a big plain American that it is hard to imagine him donning elaborate costumes and singing in foreign languages. All three artists are Americans now. This should make the idea of hearing "The King's Henchmen" sung in English and something we can all understand, fascinating.

So much easier on the imagination, as it were.

WIFE LEAVES, HE ASKS DIVORCE

His wife telephoned him from his home to his place of business, saying that she was going to leave and had called him up to say good-bye, was the story told by Joseph H. Nagel, a haberdasher of Main street, Sharpsburg, to Judge Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court, in support of his divorce against his wife, Anna L. Nagel. When Nagel returned home neighbors told him that a truck had driven up in front of the house, had been loaded and driven away.

How to Make Law Pleasant Told by Walsh

"Be courteous," Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh told officers of the First District at a meeting yesterday in Central Station. Courtesy, he said, creates a favorable impression, not only on the people of the city, but also upon visitors to Pittsburgh, here during the Christmas season in large numbers.

The meeting—a special roll call of police officers of all three shifts—was addressed also by Assistant Superintendent Leo Coleman and Inspector John P. Clancey. The men of the First District were told that no transfers to other parts of the city would be made at this time, in compliance with an order issued by Mayor Charles H. Kline.

1927 BANNER YEAR FOR DRUNKS, RECORDS SHOW

Barleycorn's Forces Grow, Despite Law

In helpless drunkenness, 1927 is to be Pittsburgh's banner year.

Records of the police and local penal institutions indicate that day by day—Volsteadism notwithstanding—John Barleycorn is becoming more puissant.

Arrests on charges of drunkenness in Pittsburgh in 1926 numbered 28,427, while the figures for the first 10 months of the present year exceed last year's total and the forecast is that 1927 police dockets will contain the names of more than 35,000 "drunks."

The Allegheny county jail records confirm the police reports in the outlook for the record-breaking demoralizing effect of booze. In 1925 there were 5,622 commitments to jail as penalties for drunkenness, but this year will exceed that figure, according to Warden John McNeil.

Arrests for drunkenness are not solely punitive measures as in former years, say the police, but are taken now as a work of mercy and first aid. Drunken men picked up on the streets in the majority of instances are helpless and many are suffering serious effects of alcoholic poisoning.

"It used to be that a 'drunk' was a tough bird to handle," said Sergt. Dave Cole at the Frankstown Avenue Police Station. "In the pre-Volstead days there were the dressed-up, intoxicated gentlemen who thought they owned the earth and butted in where they were not wanted or the plain, low-down 'drunk and disorderlies' and oldtimers. Today they pass out and drop in their tracks and have to be gathered up like the casualties on a battlefield. And, believe me, the most of these fellows shot up by poison liquor are worse off than the average victim of war. This doesn't mean that we have more intoxicated persons today; it means that they can't drink this stuff and get by."

CARRICK BOY, 6 HIT BY AUTO

Raymond Stein, 6, of Custer avenue, Carrick, suffered a fracture of the skull yesterday when he was struck by an automobile driven by George Steinhauser, 58, of Spencer avenue, Carrick. The accident occurred in front of the St. Wendelin Catholic School, Custer avenue. The boy was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital. Steinhauser was released on $1,000 bond after taking the child to the hospital.

ROB, BEAT MAN IN GARAGE

Daniel Staple, of 6515 Rowan street, was robbed of $225 early this morning by two armed men who assaulted him as he was placing his automobile in a garage in the rear of his home, according to a report to detectives.

FOUR IRON WORKERS HURT AS BEAM DROPS

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Dec. 13—Four structural iron workers, riding a heavy iron beam, which was being raised at the new George Washington High School, were injured yesterday afternoon. The bar joist, by which the beam was being raised, gave way and the beam and men were dropped to a lower floor.

The injured are Ira Gadd, 25, West Chester street, Pittsburgh; William Anderson, 32, New Castle; Harvey Scheetz, 42, Point of Rocks, Md., and Ford Albert, 38, Youngstown, O. All were taken to local hospitals.

OHIO FIRE TAKES HEAVY TOLL

NORWALK, O., Dec. 13.—Fire, which for a time threatened the entire business section of Wakeman, near here, had been placed under control this morning after the Norwalk fire department had rushed a pumper from here to aid in fighting the flames.

Believed to have originated in a garage connected with the general store of Louis Burke, the fire, which broke out about 1 o'clock this morning, spread rapidly to a grocery, a restaurant and a building housing the postoffice and the Northern Ohio Telephone Company's exchange. The latter building and Stoll's restaurant were destroyed. One-half of the Burke general store was destroyed. The other half was saved, but the stock of merchandise was destroyed.

Damage was estimated between $60,000 and $100,000.

WIFE IS SLASHED FOILING SUICIDE

DOVER, O., Dec. 13.—Suffering a deep cut in her arm, Mrs. Andrew Price, 35, yesterday frustrated an attempt of her husband to slash his throat with a razor. Price attempted suicide, it is said, when he heard that officers were en route here to return him to the Massillon State Hospital.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Social Activities of Next Few Weeks to Deprive Debutantes an Opportunity for "Beauty Sleep"

IT'S surely fortunate that all the debbies, and members of the social set, too, for that matter, are such pretty young things, for during the next few weeks not one of them will have a chance to snatch even a wink of beauty sleep. For beauty sleep, you know, must come before midnight. And from midnight on, during the merry Yuletide season, the dancing, the joy of all young folks, will be at its height.

A group of young people will arrive in town Monday, just in time to attend a dance that night in the University Club. The William McBrides, of Grant street, Sewickley, are giving the ball in honor of their debutante daughter, Marie Boggs McBride.

Among the out-of-town guests will be Jessica Holton, who will come from Bethlehem; Carol Berdan, from New York; Frederick C. Collin, from Detroit, and Walter Gaither, from Harrisburg.

The debutante's "day," which ends "after the ball is over," begins very often with a luncheon. An important luncheon, particularly in the life of the buds of the season, will be that to be given on the afternoon of December 29 by Mrs. James W. Henry and Mrs. Arthur Bliss Sheets, both of Bigelow boulevard. And the guests of honor are Suzanne Isabelle Trimble, the much-feted debutante daughter of the Harcourt Newell Trimbles, of Beechwood boulevard, and Mrs. Henry's new daughter-in-law, Mrs. James W. Henry, Jr., the former Frances Hornecker.

Still another day to be marked on the calendars of the sub-deb set and those of their brothers who are at prep school is December 26. On that evening the John J. Kennedys, of Shady avenue, will give a dance in the Pittsburgh Athletic Association Annex. The honor guests will be their daughter, Betty, a Westover girl, and their son, John J. Kennedy, Jr., a Choate School boy.

Betty, who will arrive home on December 21, is one of the sub-debs who is already anticipating her debutante days. Her brother will arrive home one day later than she.

Almost every winter there are several important weddings, and this year, such a brilliant one socially, is not going to be remiss in this respect.

RUTH TRIES I. N. S. JOB

One of the last things Ruth Elder did while in Pittsburgh was to delve into newspaper work, via the International News Service. To dozens of newspapers in this part of the state she tapped out—slowly and laboriously—a message of greeting over the I. N. S. high speed printer, which was not so high speed for the time.

Hallie Virginia Hill, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Schuyler Nicholson, of Shady avenue, whose engagement to Frederick Rufus Crawford, son of the Rufus Choate Crawfords, of Albermarle street, was announced in October, I believe, has named Wednesday, January 25, as her wedding day.

The prospective bride went to Briarcliff, Briarcliff, New York, and her fiance attended Lehigh.

Among the most colorful decorations seen at any debutante tea this season are those used for the tea Mrs. Clifford Mills Budd is giving this afternoon in the Hotel Schenley for Nan Bunton, debutante daughter of her friends, the C. C. Buntons. In the reception hall, where Mrs. Budd is receiving with Mrs. Bunton and Nan, tall standards of poinsettias against a background of cibotium ferns are surely suggestive of the approach of Christmas. In the sun-room, where tea is being served, poinsettias and cibotium ferns are arranged in standards and vases. The long tea table is centered with a luxuriant mass of the crimson-leafed flowers, mingled with white pompons and cibotium ferns. Dull gold candelabra, bearing slender red tapers, are placed at either end of the table.

Mrs. Budd is gowned in black lace trimmed in rhinestones, with a black lace hat to complete her costume. She is carrying orchids. The mother of the bud is wearing black transparent velvet, trimmed with gold, a gold hat, and has a shoulder bouquet of deep red roses. An exquisite frock of ivory satin, interwoven with a golden thread, is worn by the debutante. The gown has a V-shaped neck, with a rippling overskirt in the front, caught up at the left side with a gold ornament. Her hat is of the same material as the gown. She is carrying a Colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Budd has as her aides, Mrs. E. W. Kepler, Mrs. Frank Mellon, Mrs. A. R. Budd and Mrs. C. G. Anderson. The debutante has as her aides Florence Carroll, Juliet Hillman, Mary Currier Lewis, Marie Boggs McBride, Janet McKinney, Anne King Scott, Susanne Trimble, Margaret Brainard and Frances Fitzgerald, all buds of the season, and Priscilla Barnes, who came out last year, and Betty Charters.

Songs which were popular in the Gay Nineties are being compiled into a medley and will be broadcast over the radio Monday night from 8 to 8:30 o'clock by a group of young men who are interested in the success of the Gay Nineties ball to be held December 27 in the William Penn Hotel by the Federation of Girls' School Societies. There is to be a quartet of piano, banjo and two mandolins, including Paul Dickey, James J. Turner, Jr., Ford Moreland and Faber Downey, and Theodore Smith is to sing old melodies popular at that time.

Added to that rapidly growing list of school set parties is the dance which the C. D. Marshalls, of Fifth and Shady avenues, are planning to give December 21 for their daughter, Jane, who is to return Saturday from the Garrison Forest School in the Green Spring Valley, Md. Mary Marshall, who is a pupil at the same school, is leaving Saturday to visit her sister, Mrs. Lawrence B. Wilson, of Forest Hills, Long Island. She will remain there until the middle of next week.

Men who are to lead the figures at the first of the Tuesday Night Cotillions tonight in the Pittsburgh Club have chosen their partners. James Verner Scaife, Jr., is to dance with Mary Oliver; Richard King Mellon, with Martha Chalfant; John H. Ricketson, III, with Elizabeth Lupton Scott, and Moorhead Holland will be alone. The Christmas decorations, already arranged in the clubhouse, will provide the decorations for the cotillion.

Mrs. Oliver S. Hershman, who is to give a luncheon in the University Club Thursday for Nina Morgana, Metropolitan Grand Opera soprano, and Kathryn Meisle, Chicago Grand Opera contralto, will have as her aides Mrs. Joseph W. Stevenson, Mrs. Gaylord Yost, Miss May Beegle, Mrs. George Campbell, Mrs. Albert S. Crandon, Mrs. Samuel D. Foster, Mrs. Galen C. Hartman, Mrs. E. V. Hays, Mrs. John Hibbard, Mrs. William L. Monro and Mrs. F. D. Newbury. Christmas decorations will be used in the drawing room and the dining room.

CONDITIONS IN INDIA PICTURED BEFORE CLUB

The English government was pictured as exploiting India, not for the good of India nor for the English people at large, but for the few in the governing class, by Syud Hossain, native of India, when he spoke before the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning. India, whose life and civilization are antedated by nothing on earth today; India, which alone survives all ancient contemporaries; whose name was one to conjure with in history, whose wealth was sung by poet and historian and, seeking which, Columbus discovered America—this India has, under British rule, become the poorest country in the world, said Mr. Hossain in fluent, perfect English. The British went to India for what they could get out of it. They are there today for precisely the same reason, he declared, saying that England's rule as "a benevolent dispensation" is greatly exaggerated. England, he stated, controls every ingress and egress and a strict censorship is maintained over all authentic information concerning the true state of affairs. Twenty thousand Indians are political prisoners, he said, not because they are anti-British, but because they are pro-Indian. Ghandi was held up as the greatest leader in India today and it is largely due to him, the speaker emphasized, that even for the sake of national independence, "India will not soil the hem of her spiritual garment with hate and violence." That her philosophy is a spiritual, instead of a material one, was given as the reason for India's length of life.

First announcements concerning the 1928 convention of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers which will be held April 30 to May 5 in Cleveland foretell some splendid programs. Among the speakers will be Dr. D. A. Thom, Boston, authority on mental hygiene; Dr. W. E. Blatz of St. George's School, Toronto, a specialist in parental training; Frank H. Cheley, author of "The Job of Being a Dad," and Dr. Randall J. Condon, superintendent of schools, Cincinnati. Through the courtesy of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, the play night and recreation classes will be conducted by John Martin, whose leadership is known to all who have attended a recreation congress. Among the leaders at the 12 round table conferences will be Dr. Thom, Dr. Blatz, Dr. Gary C. Myers of Western Reserve University and Newell Edson of the American Social Hygiene Association, New York.

"Everybody was the Red Cross," said Augustus K. Oliver in describing before the Monday Luncheon Club yesterday the work done by that organization at the time of the North Side explosion. Mr. Oliver pointed out that it was not the Red Cross alone which had functioned during the rehabilitation period, but the effectiveness came through the splendid co-operation of the 75 agencies working under the direction of the Red Cross. He paid especial praise to the city departments and the police and firemen. Nine hundred and fifty families were given assistance and many of them will have to be carried on the books for years, he said. At the canteens 20,000 weiner sandwiches were given away.

JUDGE, WHEN 86, PAID TRIBUTE

An illuminated scroll was presented late yesterday to Judge Josiah Cohen in his Criminal Court chambers as a testimanial in honor of his eighty-sixth birthday. The scroll was presented by Bernard W. Goldsmith, deputy sheriff, for a committee composed of John Titz and Major H. D. Fowler, tipstaffs, and Harry Corbin, assistant clerk of courts, representing attaches of the courts.

Judge Cohen, re-elected for the third time in November, returned to the bench yesterday after a brief sojourn in Atlantic City. He celebrated his birthday November 29.

NO 8-HOUR DAY FOR GERMAN STEELMILLS

By Universal Service.

BERLIN, Dec. 13.—Yielding to the threat of German iron and steel manufacturers that they would close every iron and steel plant in Germany on January 1 if compelled to initiate the eight-hour day as required by law, the German government tentatively has promised that certain firms might postpone the change until a "more favorable time."

Business leaders close to the steel concerns believe the government's compromise clears the way for a satisfactory settlement of all questions now under consideration by the official arbitrator and it is expected the steel barons will withdraw their threat before Christmas. The government will establish a special commission to decide which firms will be allowed to postpone the new system.

"The Wooden Kimono" Is Filled With Mystery, Murder, Midnight, and Shrieks Count as Applause

By GEORGE SEIBEL

THE American Association for the Promotion of Hysteria held a successful session at the Nixon Theater last night, in connection with the first performance of "The Wooden Kimono." This mystery thriller, put together by John Floyd, starts with a storm outside and unearthly groans inside the old Red Owl Tavern, where three guests had been mysteriously murdered three years previously. The hostess complains that it's a lonely place, but not a minute passes without fresh rapping at the door, while ghostly hands clutch at visitors out of the shadows, shrieks are heard and shots are fired and lights are turned out—and for a time a statistician would be puzzled to determine just how many people have been murdered and who's who. But it is all cleared up finally, after the ladies in the audience have been frightened into choruses of shrieks and the men are tired of guessing who's guilty.

GEORGE SEIBEL

To criticize a thing of this sort by any standards of play construction or apply to it any norms of human psychology is futule. The formula is to have something happen every minute, and if enough things happen nobody can stop to ask why. It would rattle a rationalist and obfuscate a psychic. The explanation of mystery is mere mystery. Of course there is a spinster ready at repartee, and a detective who puts everybody under arrest. There is a case of dual personality which is neither by a transmutation of sex. Dont' try to understand this—it will become clear to you if you see the play, and you'll not wish to know it beforehand. It might inhibit your shrieking when the lights go out.

The actors who disport through this orgy of shivers acquit themselves well. Dudley Clements and Helen Carew, the detective and the spinster, were most effective of all in stimulating the laughter of the audience, which served as a relief to the chills. Leslie Austen, an old Pittsburgh favorite, played a principal role with finish. Worthington Romaine got much out of the minor role of the comic sheriff. Hermann Lieb did well as the doctor, and Clara Verdera as the heroine moved with serene calm amid all the harrowing happenings. All of them ought to be indicted for conspiracy to boost the sale of hot-water bags for application to frozen spines.

Jane Cowl's Play, "Lilac Time," on Screen

The third month of preparation for the filming of "Lilac Time," Colleen Moore's next production for First National Pictures, has ended and in a fortnight actual filming will begin. John McCormick, producer; George Fitzmaurice, director of "Lilac Time," and Willis Goldbeck and Adela Rogers St. Johns, scenarist, have been working steadily on plans during the last few weeks.

The picture, which will be one of the most elaborate of Miss Moore's career, calls for an extended shooting schedule and a large number of sets and players. The action is laid principally in France behind the lines during the war. Miss Moore will play the role of a little French girl, while the chief male character will be a young British soldier.

Although Fitzmaurice was born in Ireland, he was educated in Paris and is considered an ideal choice for the task of directing the story, because of this background and his recognized romantic-dramatic talents. "Lilac Time," written by Jane Cowl and Jane Murfin and forming one of Miss Cowl's most successful stage plays, is described as a beautiful romance.

The search for the man who will play the part of the soldier continues. The choice is said to lie between three popular screen leading men.

This Actress Has One Million "Brothers"

June Collyer, the feminine lead to William Farnum in "Hangman's House," which John Ford is making from Donn Byrne's novel of the same name, has a million "big brothers." She comes of a "B. P. O. E." family.

Her grandfather, Dan Collyer, who trod the boards of the legitimate stage for 54 years, was the first charter member of the Baltimore lodge, and organist at New York lodge No. 1. He was elevated to the respective "chairs" of the New York branch and finally served No. 1 as exalted ruler.

Much of Miss Collyer's autographing of pictures is done for Elks in all parts of the country. She has received a host of letters wishing the "granddaughter of Don Collyer every success."

Miss Collyer is a New York girl and has been in pictures since last summer, when Allan Dwan picked her for a leading role in "East Side, West Side." She has been in "Woman Wise" and "Grandma Bernie Learns Her Letters" since then.

Sheridan Square Has Musical Farce

A musical farce, "Compance Attention," a sort of a burlesque on the trials and tribulations of U. S. Marines in China, tops the vaudeville in the Sheridan Square for the first three days of this week. Palmero's well trained dogs have juvenile appeal. Rodger and Wynne, comedians; May Mack, a singing funster, and Oscar and King, two other vaudeville featers, complete the stage show. The screen feature is the picturization of John Golden's stage play, "2 Girls Wanted," which, incidentally, played the Nixon last week. The cast in the film version is headed by Janet Gaynor and Glen Tryon. An organlogue, a comedy film and news pictures are on the bill.

"HERE WE ARE" IN GAYETY

"Here We Are," a new Columbia burlesque attraction produced by Ed E. Daley, was the speedy, funny and often "raw" attraction in the Gayety yesterday. Twenty-two scenes in the first act and 14 in the second give a hint of the rapidity with which the show moved to get the patrons out in time to catch the 4:45 car. Individual performers who won appreciation of the audience were Jack LaMont, Jewish character comedian; Billy Tanner, grotesque comic; Patricia Burns, Midgie Gibbons, Gertrude Dwyer, Henri Keller, George Paige, Bee Paige, Buster Newman and Patsy Crowley. Specialties by Miss Burns, Patsy Crowley and Buster Newman revealed dancing ability that clicked with the audience. Among the more elaborate scenes were "The Lady of the Web," sung by Henri Keller and Miss Dwyer, illustrating the spider and the fly theme, with the man as the fly, and "Congo," dream of a quinine fiend, with a tropical setting.

Three Athletes in Two Fox Pictures

Three specimens of athletic manhood, Johnny Mack Brown, William Russell and Raoul Paoli, were introduced to each other recently at the lunch hour in the Fox Films West Coast Studios.

Brown had just reported to play the male lead opposite Madge Bellamy in "Soft Living," the screen adaptation of an original story, "The Marriage Graft," by Grace Mack. Brown is the former spectacular halfback of the Alabama University football eleven.

In the course of the conversation, Russell told how athletics had enabled him to overcome a physical handicap, due to an accident early in life, which threatened to destroy the usefulness of a leg. He went in for boxing as a corrective and curative medium, and became a light-heavyweight of ability, being well known for his prowess in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other cities' amateur rings. At one period, he was champion.

Russell and Paoli, who holds many European track and field titles, are in the cast of "Woman Wise."

Paul Whiteman's Band Pleases In Penn

Paul Whiteman brought his syncopating fame and his excellently trained jazz orchestra to the Penn as the stage attraction in that theater yesterday. A large audience derived much pleasure through the rendition of popular melodies as interpreted by the men under Mr. Whiteman's direction. Opening with "When the Day Is Done," the program included "Under the Moon," "Dancing Tambourine," Gershwin's "Rhapsody in Blue" and other selections. There also were solo parts and ensembles by individuals, duets and other groups, among the specialists being Wilbur Hall, violinist, with a flair for comedy. On the screen Lew Cody, once one of the screen's oiliest villains, now one of its real comedians, was teamed up again with Aileen Pringle in another jolly farce for the pair, "Tea for Three," the third member of the "three" being Owen Moore. It shows what happens when a man gets jealous of his friend and cuts cards to see which will kill himself, the winner in this case being the loser. Dick Liebert's organlogue and M-G-M news completed the pleasing bill.

Billie Dove Makes Screen Drama All Herself

You just can't stay away from picture work! That, at least, is the case with Billie Dove.

No sooner had she completed work in "The Love Mart," the George Fitzmaurice production formerly called "Louisiana," than she directed, starred in, cut and edited a film of her very own!

It is compoiled of discarded "cuts" from a dozen of her productions, plus bits that she is making to tie the sequences together in a semi-coherent story. Of course, it is all for fun and the enjoyment of her friends.

Miss Dove has a projection machine at her home and a room that may easily be converted into a small theater.

Entertainers :-: In Our Theaters :-: This Week

PAUL WHITEMAN, who leads his jazz orchestra in a program of syncopation as the Penn stage feature.

CLARA VERDERA, leading woman in "Wooden Kimona," mystery thriller which raises gooseflesh in the Nixon.

WALTER C. KELLY, dialect monologist, whose "Virginia Judge" characterizations are presented on Grand stage.

LEON ERROL is back in the Alvin again in "Yours Truly," musical comedy in which he was here last season.

"THE OLD SOAK" DAVIS HIT

Whether it is that everybody now has a fellow feeling for an efficient inebriate, or whether they just admire a fine character study, Harry Beresford's condensed version of "The Old Soak" scored a hit at the Davis Theater yesterday. Mr. Beresford does not overact, and keeps the sympathy of the audience by his genial self-contempt—that is the secret of his appeal, in spite of the crude plot of his sketch. Besides Beresford, the vaudeville bill presents a number of clever dancers, agile acrobats, amusing comedians, and Madeline Patrice, a singer with a voice and a violin. Joe Rome, who is five feet, minus, and Lou Gaut, who is six feet, plus, extract a lot of fun out of the two feet difference in their size. Jimmy Conlin and Myrtle Glass have an act that keeps the audience screaming, with no discernible reason—it just tickles everybody. Billy Bradford and Marion Hamilton are marvelously graceful dancers. Don Valerio cavorts upon the slack wire as if it were an asphalt pave, and the Rubio Sisters do acrobatic balancing as if they were cork and rubber. "Two Girls Wanted" is the photoplay feature, with Janet Gaynor in the role of Marianna Miller, and there is also a very stirring boy comic entitled "Wild Puppies."

SONG COMPOSER IN ALDINE

Neville Fleeson, popular song composer, who, incidentally, is a Pittsburgh product, and Bobby Folsom, a little girl whose personality has won her acclaim in the music shows, are one of the bright spots of the bill in the Aldine this week. Fleeson plays some of his new compositions and Miss Folsom puts them across. And among other things, she's a capable impersonater. Barr, Mayo and Renn offer a comedy act, "She Cares for Me," which proves amusing enough. They also do a little vocal harmonizing. Natacha Nattova, assisted by G. Rodion, offers artistic dances. Tom and Jerry "Have a Few Ideas," some old and some new, and Katherine Sinclair and company lend the bill its athletic touch. "The Understanding Heart," based on Peter B. Kyne's novel, is the screen feature. It is good entertainment, featured by a good cast and picturesque scenic effects. The players include Joan Crawford, Rockcliffe Fellows and Francis X. Bushman, Jr. Short film features are on the bill.

CAMERAPHONE SHOWS TWO FEATURED FILMS

"The Understanding Heart" and "The Satin Woman," two featured photoplays, are being shown this week in the Cameraphone. "The Understanding Heart" is based on the Peter B. Kyne novel. The cast includes Joan Crawford, Francis X. Bushman, Jr., and Carmel Meyers. "The Satin Woman" stars Mrs. Wallace Reid, widow of Wally Reid. News pictures complete the bill.

"LES MISERABLES" REMAINS IN CAMEO

"Les Miserables," the French-made picturization of Victor Hugo's classic story, is being presented for a third week in the Cameo. A new "Collegians" film, the International News and music also are on this week's bill.

Leon Errol in "Yours Truly" Again Enthuses Audience in Alvin By His Comedy Antics

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"YOURS TRULY," the Gene Buck musical comedy, starring Leon Errol, last night came back to the Alvin, where, last season, it began a career of tuneful and comical appeal that carried it into a long and successful engagement in New York, which followed the initial appearance of the piece here. Its action has been speeded up so that it can be presented now in less than the four hours required for the initial presentation here but it still is so filled with good things that an 8:15 curtain-rising is necessary in order to get them all over at a seasonable hour.

The comedy takes its title from the character played by Errol. Truly, a character of the slum district of New York, a chap of good heart but loose habits whose interest in the work Mary Stillwell, an aristocratic girl who conducts a mission for down-and-outers, saves the day when her father threatens to close the place because he does not approve of her contact with the class of persons among whom she labors. The first act takes place in the square in front of the mission, introducing interesting types. The second is divided into seven scenes, ranging from a garden on the Stillwell estate to a Chinese night club, giving opportunity for the introduction of specialties of all kinds.

Errol, of course, is the center of all and he gives his best. His familiar funny falls and leg twists are introduced in a new and funnier way in the first act, in which he is "stewed" and his efforts to place a stamp on a letter and put it in the letter box kept the audience howling with laughter last night. Unable to make his wobbly legs do what his mind willed he finally tore up the envelope and threw it away. As a comedy pantomime Errol has few equals, if any.

I always marvel at the precision of dancing girls of the John Tiller school and I always think every new group that I see is the best of all. The audience in the Alvin last night must have thought the same about the "Yours Truly" group of ensemble steppers, judging from the applause their every appearance brought forth. They are truly amazing. The dancing chorus also was well drilled and went through their steps in a manner that was exceptionally pleasing.

The songs of "Yours Truly" are rather familiar by this time but they still have appeal and were cordially received last night, especially "Look at the World and Smile," by Gertrude Lang; "Somebody Else," by Miss Lang and Irving Fisher, and "Yours Truly," also by Miss Lang and Mr. Fisher. Specialties included dancing and skating by Inez and Earl Van Horn.

The piece was elaborately staged and richly costumed. From an acting standpoint it also was well done, characterizations that rang true being those of Mr. Fisher as a dope, David Herblin as Dinty Moore, Forrest Yarnall, as a Chinese night club proprietor, Vic Casmore as an Italian street peddler, Theodore Babcock, as Mary's millionaire father, Vera Myers as Scats, Truly's girl, Jimmie McCallum as a newsboy, not forgetting Miss Lang and Mr. Fisher, leading woman and leading man.

"Sailors' Wives" Is Not Drama of Sea

The last "shot" has been fired and "Sailors' Wives," the dramatic story by Warner Fabian, in its film version, is now ready for cutting and titling.

With Mary Astor and Lloyd Hughes in the featured leading roles, this First National picture offers an unconventional treatment of a certain phase of social life.

The title has an implication that in some way the sea is concerned, or at least those who live on the briny deep leaving their better-halves at home. However, this is purely symbolical and the picture deals wholly with society circles in our own land.

SYD CHAPLIN COMEDY CURRENT IN OLYMPIC

The Olympic screen this week is offering Syd Chaplin's comedy, "The Missing Link." The comedian has the role of a hungry poet who finds himself a member of an expedition en route to Africa in search of the "missing link." There is a Vitaphone accompaniment with the photoplay. The regular Vitaphone program offers J. and J. Trigg, ukelele players; John Maxwell, soprano and tenor, and the Submarine Quartet. News pictures are shown.

Diz-aster!
Another Vital Health Lecture

Comes When Your Lights Get Low!

EVER know you had headlights, like an automobile? They are kept bright by your human battery—health! When they get dim, you can't think nor see as far ahead. Dizzy spells, headaches, stomach disorders and other troubles dim your lights (eyesight) and the secret may be oncoming System Poisoning—professionally called "TOXEMIA". When this insidious disorder invades your blood and body, Diz-aster (disaster) soon follows! You become weak, dull, grouchy and lack ambition. You should take Partola, the internal antiseptic and laxative, because ordinary laxative pills and waters do not clean out the dangerous bacteria that dim your lights and cause System Poisoning (TOXEMIA). Start taking Partola, then see your vision and power of endurance increase, health improve, ambition return. Partola is often called "The Doctor in Candy Form", it's so pleasant to chew and swallow. It ends constipation and every family should keep a box handy. All good druggists sell regular box of Partola 50¢, double size 80¢.

"Underworld," Film And Kelly Win In Grand

With "Underworld," a rapid-fire melodrama, on the screen and Walter C. Kelly, "The Virginia Judge," on the stage, the Grand yesterday gave its patrons entertainment value much above the average. "Underworld" is a crook picture that one can readily believe reproduces life in gangland with accuracy. Scenes, at least, are somewhat as one imagines them to be after reading of intrigues and crimes of gangs which infest every large city. Briefly, it is a story of a criminal with a masterful way, who slays a rival gangster, escapes a short time before he is to be executed in order to wreak vengeance on his girl, and a friend whom he believes to be faithless, surrendering after a terrific battle with the police when he learns they have tried to help him. George Bancroft gave a great characterization of a gangster with a lordly manner. Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent pleased in supporting roles, well played. Larry Semon was the not illogical "comedy relief." Kelly's dialect characterizations were well liked. A violin solo, "Souvenir," by Elias Breeskin, overture by the Grand Orchestra, news and screen comedy completed a good bill.

"Girls of U. S. A." Is Show in Academy

"The Girls of the U. S. A.," this week's burlesque in the Academy, is a fast moving show in which Norma Noel is a conspicuous figure. She pleased in both songs and specialties, which included a vocal and dancing turn in which she was aided by Bryan Wolfe, an adept pianist. George Carroll was again seen in his familiar tramp character. Curley Kelley used her pleasing voice to advantage in "I Told Them About You." A scene in Greenville Village and an Oriental view are elaborate sets. Anna Evans and 10 dancing girls and Hinda Wassau were seen in specialties.

HARRIS FEATURE DANCE ACT

There are a number of interesting acts in the Harris this week. The headliner is a dance presentation offered by Danny Duggan, with the assistance of Ann Aker, the Miller Twins and Roy Waltz. An amateur dance contest is being held in connection with this act. The vaudeville show opens with Harry Martine, juggler, whose feats win the applause and whose chatter wins the laughs. Mildred Parker and her violin are responsible for a highly entertaining 10 minutes. The three comedians, Luley, Henri and Crocker, who do a lot of rube stepping and tumbling, are amusing. Page and Cortez offer a variety act, "A Night in Spain." The photoplay feature is "The Harvester," based on the late Gene Stratton Porter's novel of the same name. Somehow, no matter how good the original, these screen adaptations of Gene Stratton Porter's works are nothing to get excited about. And neither is the cast in this case. A Fable comedy film, news pictures and the usual "singing-organlogue" are on the bill.

"Billy"--He's Only 5--Helps Neediest Fund

Contributions to the Christmas fund The Sun-Telegraph is raising for the relief of the Twenty Neediest Cases of poverty that the leading charitable organizations of Pittsburgh have been able to find continue to come in, but not in the volume that might reasonably be expected in a community of this size. It is evident that many of the kind-hearted people of Pittsburgh are deterred from giving by the feeling that they cannot give large checks and that it would be better for them to give nothing than to send in only a dollar or two. They should disabuse their minds of that notion. Small contributions are cordially welcomed. Let everyone who has goodwill towards men show it by a modest donation for the Twenty Neediest Cases.

It is hoped that more persons will catch the spirit of 5-year-old Billie Stout, Jr., of Aspinwall, whose heart was so touched by something that he heard about the suffering of the poor children in the Twenty Neediest Families that he took some money out of his bank to send them, and with it a note expressing the wish that Santa Claus would be good to them.

The children in these cases, it is pertinent to remark, are so poor that they do not have enough to eat, nor sufficient clothing; the help that is sought for them is to provide necessities, not toys. There are old folks among the Twenty Neediest, too, old folks who have suffered misfortune, and who, unless aided by the charitable, will be separated from their loved ones and sent to institutions.

Every cent that can be collected will be turned over to these unfortunates. There will be no deduction for "administration expenses," or for any other reason. The Sun-Telegraph was complimented yesterday, for volunteering to collect the fund, by a well-known attorney who sent a contribution and with it a note stating that it was a greatly needed activity, since it tended to eliminate collectors for the poor who charged for their services.

The Twenty Neediest Cases have been reported by the Associated Charities, the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh, the Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, the Salvation Army and the Volunteers of America. Checks and money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, or, if preferred, to one of the societies named.

All of the 20 cases were described in The Sunday Sun-Telegraph of November 27. One case will be repeated each day. Here is case No. 16:

Tuberculosis is a grim specter when it attacks the husband and father and incapacitates him. Let it be linked with rheumatism in the mother and destitution is complete. M. and T. have four children who must go to school, whatever the cost. That was part of the reason the S family came to America to secure education for the children.

Mr. S, a laborer, has been out of work for 11 months. Friends have paid the rent at times. The Catholic Charities supplies a weekly grocery order of $5. They are still wanting gas for light and heat, shoes, clothing, insurance and carfare—for he must return to the Tuberculosis Hospital for observation once a month

In two or three years, things may be better, Jennie will be able to work—she is only 13 now. Frank and Gerald will be able to work after school.

(Reported by the Catholic Charities of the Diocese of Pittsburgh.)

Case No. 17 will be described tomorrow.

How 20 Neediest Cases Money May Be Sent

Designate the particular case you wish to help.

Checks or money orders should be made payable to the "Twenty Neediest Cases Fund" and sent to The Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa., or to the following co-operating organizations:

The Associated Charities of Pittsburgh, Fulton Building.

The Catholic Charities, Diocese of Pittsburgh, Wabash Building.

The Pittsburgh Association for the Improvement of the Poor, 128 Duquesne way.

The Salvation Army, 425 Second avenue,

The Volunteers of America, Volunteer Building, Pittsburgh.

MEYERSDALE TEACHER MARRIES IN RANGOON

MEYERSDALE, Pa., Dec. 12.—Word has been received here of the marriage in Rangoon, Burma, of Mrs. Evelyn M. Mobltzell, formerly a teacher in Meyersdale High School, and Chester E. Leaber, of Williamsport, Pa., who is employed by an international banking company, in Rangoon.

CHIROPODISTS PREPARE CONVENTION PROGRAM

The Western Pennsylvania branch of the Chiropody Society of Pennsylvania planned the state convention at a meeting in the William Penn Hotel. The convention, to be held June 3, 4, 5, will have a program of speech-making and entertainment, the general committee announced.

KELLY IN FAVOR OF VOTING MACHINES

In a letter received today, Congressman Clyde Kelly congratulated The Sun-Telegraph on its campaign of education in regard to voting machines, adding: "I favor the adoption of voting machines for primaries and general elections in Pennsylvania."

"I know, of course, that no mechanical device will automatically prevent manipulation of the ballot. But I believe in the adoption of every method which will make illegal voting and false returns more difficult.

"Voting machines will check many evil practices. They will prevent the chain fraud perpetrated through possession of a blank official ballot. They will prevent the holding back of precinct returns for ulterior purposes, since the total vote is registered when the last ballot is cast.

"Voting machines will cost money. Is it not true, however, that this nation rests at last upon the sanctity of the ballot? Can any expenditure be too great to protect the fountain of government from being poisoned? If there is fraud and debauchery when representatives of the people are named, the whole stream of political life becomes a menace to true people's government.

"The vast majority of Pennsylvanians stand for clean politics and honest elections. They will show that they know how to secure such boons and that they are willing to pay the price for them."

PARROT STARTS NEAR RIOT

By Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—A bald-headed parrot caused a commotion in court as it flew about the court room and shrieked loudly throughout the proceedings. When it fluttered into the detention pen it caused a near riot.

Mrs. Adela Cacarveya was held for trial. She was charged with stealing a parrot from Mrs. Carmen Oliver, but the latter said it was not the parrot in court.

Lose Fat in an easier way

Don't over-exert—correct the cause

Some can reduce by starvation or abnormal exercise, but the way is long and hard. Not one in ten of the over-fat has the patience to continue. And even then the best efforts may fail unless the inner cause is corrected.

Over twenty years ago scientific men discovered a great cause of excess fat. They found a substance which Nature employs to turn food into fuel and energy rather than into fat. They proved that an extra supply of that substance could check the formation of fat.

That substance was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for two decades—millions of boxes of them. Now you can see in almost every circle how much they have done for beauty, health, and vitality. Doubtless some of your friends can tell you. Slenderness prevails today, fat is the exception.

The use of Marmola requires no abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. Users simply take four tablets daily until the weight comes down to normal. They combat the cause.

Try the help which has done so much for so many. You owe that to yourself. You cannot afford to stay over-fat when reduction is so easy and so pleasant. Watch the results, then tell your friends, as people have for 20 years been doing. All your life you will be glad that you know Marmola. Go order now.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

Priced at 1.59 and 2.50 the pair.

GUNS BLAZE AGAIN IN HERRIN 2 POLICE OFFICERS WOUNDED

SECOND NEWS SECTION
THE SUN-TELEGRAPH
SPORTS FEATURES
TUESDAY, DECEMBER 13, 1927

DROP 2 ON CITY HALL STEPS

HERRIN, Ill., Dec. 13.—(AP.)—A year of peace in Herrin, one of the storm centers of the Southern Illinois coal fields, was broken here last night when an automobile filled with gunmen left behind two wounded police officers.

Elmer McCormick, brother of Mayor Marshall McCormick, was in a critical condition today from gunshot wounds in his neck and breast and John Stamm, day chief of police, was nursing wounds in the shoulder from the rifles of the gunmen, who drove twice around the City Hall, firing a volley upon each circuit.

Noted for its fitful outbreaks of rioting and shooting since the mine riots in 1921, Herrin has made consistent efforts in the last year to rid itself of its sanguinary name.

Last night Mayor McCormick, his brother, a patrolman and Stamm were standing on the City Hall steps when the gunmen's car approached. A volley of shots brought Elmer McCormick down.

The car circled the square and Stamm, who had taken refuge in an alley between the City Hall and the fire station, received a bullet in the shoulder from the second volley. The car disappeared in the direction of Carbondale and Murphysboro.

Officers could give no motive for the shooting other than that it might have been a flare-up of the Ku Klux Klan and anti-klan troubles which have taken a number of lives here.

NAB BURGLAR IN GAS STATION

The gasoline service station of Benjamin Sigmund, Rebecca street and Penwood avenue, Wilkinsburg, robbed by automobile bandits recently, was the scene of the capture this morning of a burglar suspect.

Patrolman Charles Bainbridge, noticing the beam of a flashlight in the place, entered and arrested James Kane, 22, who gave his address as Philadelphia. Nothing had been stolen. The loot in the previous robberies amounted to several hundred dollars.

U. S. LANDS GUNS AT CANTON

SHANGHAI, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—The United States gunboat Sacramento has landed field guns at Canton to protect foreigners.

The guns were taken to the United States Consulate in the Shameen concession district.

The American forces have also aided in evacuating foreigners from the Chinese sections of the city which is controlled by Communists, who ousted the latest Canton dictator, Gen. Chang Fak-Wei.

Armed launches from the United States gunboat Pampanga were sent to Tungshan, a suburb of Canton, to bring Americans there to safety. Other vessels belonging to the Standard Oil Company were also dispatched to aid in the work.

There were signs today that the Communists, successful in Canton, were trying to bring about a general strike.

Shanghai itself appears calm, however, although several groups of workers have gone on strike. These included tramway workers, dock laborers and employes of the British-American Tobacco Company. An attempt was made to bring out the bus operators in the international settlement and tramway workers in the French concession. Communist agitators were also busy among the lower grade workers in the postoffice.

Fifteen Americans and two British subjects were brought from the Chinese city to Shameen Island by armored launches, dispatches direct from Canton stated today. The launches belonged to the Standard Oil Company and were manned by armed guards.

CALLED BOOTLEGGER, SUES FOR DAMAGES

Indignant because he is said to have been called a bootlegger, R. R. Hoak of Lincoln township filed suit in Common Pleas Court against Edward R. Johnson for $5,000 damages yesterday. Hoak charges that the defendant called him a moonshiner and charged that he sold or made illicit liquor.

STEALS CAB, SHOOTS AT DRIVER

An armed robber early today stole a taxicab from C. L. Woods, a cab driver, in Federal street near Henderson street and fired two shots at Woods when the driver failed to run from the scene of the holdup. The cab was recovered an hour later in front of the Allegheny General Hospital.

Woods told police he had just turned into Federal street from Henderson street when he was hailed by the robber. When he stopped, the prospective passenger drew a revolver and took possession of the cab, ordering Woods to run. When Woods failed to move fast enough to suit the robber, the holdup man fired two shots near the driver's feet.

Lieut. Samuel Graham of the North Side station located the cab an hour later in front of the hospital.

Says Prohibition Cuts Juvenile Delinquency

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Decrease in alcoholism since prohibition went into effect has had a direct beneficial effect in decreasing juvenile delinquency, Miss Grace Abbott, chief of the Children's Bureau of the labor department, announced in her annual report.

GRACE ABBOTT

"Alcoholism of the parents is an added complication in the treatment of juvenile delinquency," said Miss Abbott, "in that it seriously affects the co-operation to be expected from parents in the treatment that the court decides is necessary to correct the habits held responsible for the child's delinquency.

"The Children's Bureau undertook a study in Boston of the relationship between parents' alcoholism and their children's delinquency. The 8-year period from July 1, 1917, to June 30, 1925, was used.

"Alcoholism was found to be decreasing. Although the information showed no relation between the type of offense for which a child was brought to the court and intemperance on the part of the parents, alcoholism of parents was associated with the number of times a child appeared in court.

"Repeaters—that is, children who were brought into court more than once—were more likely than first offenders to come from homes in which alcoholism was a problem."

Jail-Breaker Not To Blame for Weak Wall

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 13.—A hole in a jail is an extenuating circumstance, Judge James I. Brownson ruled in the case of John Yevak. John crawled out of the Bentleyville lockup after serving 40 days for a minor offense. When he pleaded guilty to escaping the court suspended sentence upon being informed as to the condition of the jail wall.

NEW BRIGHTON DANCE HALL FEE HELD VALID

Glass refused to take out a permit, as required by borough ordinance. He was arrested and was fined $25. Police threatened to arrest him every time he opened his dance hall. DOWNTOWN GAS BLAST STARTS $2,000 FIRE

Several firemen were partially overcome early today fighting a stubborn fire that started from a gas explosion in the basement of a three-story building at 962 Liberty avenue. The dense smoke from burning rubbish kept the fire fighters from entering the basement to the flames for more than half an hour, even while they were using gas masks. Damage was estimated at $2,000 by Batallion Chief Frank Jones.

According to firemen, leaking gas caused the explosion. The fire that followed swept up a dumb-waiter shaft to the restaurant of Armado Fontana on the first floor. Windows in the restaurant were blown out by the explosion and glass littered the sidewalk on Liberty avenue. The firemen also fought the blaze from William Penn way. The fire was confined to the basement and first floor.

CONDUCTOR FOILS PENNSYLVANIA TRAIN ROBBERS

SAVES $50,000 SILK CARGO IN GUN BATTLE

By International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 13.—A lone freight conductor, his hat shot away by a bandit's bullet, foiled the most daring holdup attempt in the history of this section early today, and stood off a band of 15 in a pitched pistol fight until the arrival of state troopers from the Langhorne barracks.

P. Dancy, in charge of a Reading freight en route from Jersey City, N. J., to Wayne Junction, is the hero of the battle with the bandits whose object was a $50,000 raw silk cargo in one of the cars.

BANDITS HALT TRAIN

Dancy was awakened from his early morning rest in the caboose when the train stopped near Langhorne, Bucks county, 21 miles north of here, before a stop signal which had been set against it by the bandits. He saw the bend working at the door of one of the middle cars, and cautiously approached them. The bandits already had one door open and several bales of the silk were piled beside the tracks.

One of the bandits saw him approaching, and fired, the bullet ripping Dancy's hat from his head. He returned the fire, and the rest of the bandits joined their lookout in the firing.

Four state troopers answered a summons for help, and the gang fled to the woods.

While most of the silk cargo had been removed from the car and piled beside th track, a checkup by Reading officials showed no shortage.

CANTATA TO BE GIVEN BY CRIPPLED CHILDREN

Wishing everyone a "Merry Christmas" has become an established tradition with the boys and girls of the Industrial Home for Crippled Children on Denniston avenue, and their way of expressing the holiday greeting is by presenting an annual Christmas cantata. This year marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of the Home which provides medical attention and educational advantages for crippled children. The medical staff includes Dr. James O. Wallace, Dr. George J. Wright, Dr. Clarence W. Hagan, Dr. Alexander C. Blair, Dr. R. P. Meyer, Dr. F. C. Frissell, Dr. Henry C. Flood, Dr. Charles B. Maits, Dr. W. W. McFarland, Dr. Z. R. Scott and Dr. G. J. Feldstein.

RODGERS CITES RIVER TRAFFIC BENEFITS

Calling upon Pittsburgh business men to "arouse from a 50-years' sleep," William B. Rodgers, Jr., predicted a great expansion of inland waterway traffic in an address before the Chamber of Commerce today on "Pittsburgh and Its Waterways." His is the twentieth paper in the series on "Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Spirit."

After giving in detail the story of the development of inland waterways in the Ohio and Mississippi valleys, Mr. Rodgers pointed out that all-year navigation on the Ohio would be realized in 1929 when the last of the government locks and dams are completed. He continued:

It will have cost the Government $88,000,000 to build these 50 locks and dams, but when you consider that the total amount our Government has spent on the Monongahela River up to date, including maintenance, is around $11,000,000 and in one year (1924), just a little over two years ago, this river saved the shipper $14,000,000. In the one year saving $3,000,000 more than the entire cost of improvements and maintenance to date, when you consider these facts, you will agree with me that it will not be long after the Ohio is slack-watered until the expenditure of every dollar on improvement will have been justified. The saving on the Monongahela River rate over the railroad rate was about 65 cents a ton.

As fast as a river is improved, new industries spring up, new floating craft are built and a saving is effected to the consumer which more than justifies the expenditure. In the last 10 years with the Government extending the slackwater system farther and farther south, river transportation has taken on new life. Pittsburgh today boasts of 54 pool boats with a value of $6,150,000. Of this fleet, 39 are of the modern steel construction and were built within the last 10 years. There are more than 600 steel barges in use in this district worth $9,600,000. There are 11 steel tugs worth $333,000. This river equipment represents over $16,000,000 in the Pittsburgh district alone.

You ask, "Is river traffic dying?" In the Pittsburgh district from January 1 to October 1 of this year 1,595,872 tons have been shipped on the Allegheny River—18,274,954 on the Monongahela River and 7,217,740 on the Ohio River. As the rivers are improved, the tonnage increases. With the obstructive bridges across the Allegheny River removed, the Government is proceeding to slackwater this river, and it is a safe prediction that within a few years after this river is improved the saving on freight will justify every cent that has been spent on its improvement.

Coal is the greatest tonnage on the river at this time, with sand and gravel next, then steel. It is interesting to know that last year in four summer months there were 2,825 passengers left Pittsburgh by packet and 2,801 came into our city. The excursion boats carried 51,000 people in the same months. Freight tonnage handled in 1926 on the Ohio River from Pittsburgh was 22 per cent above that handled in 1925.

THIEF FOILED AT EAGLES' CLUB

An unsuccessful attempt to rob McKeesport Aerie, No. 285, Fraternal Order of Eagles was made early yesterday by a robber who attempted to bind William Gross, night steward. Gross had just placed several hundred dollars from the cash register in the safe when the robber entered. Gross broke away, ran to the street and the robber fled.

Jewelry valued at $500 was taken from the store of H. S. Slade in Walnut street, McKeesport, by someone who shattered the window with a brick. The home of Charles Caulson, 634 West Fifth, McKeesport, was entered and two watches valued at $400 taken. A purse containing $15 and jewelry valued at 100 were stolen from the home of Mrs. Mary Scrook, at 609 Park street, McKeesport, early yesterday.

PROVIDES FUND FOR AVIATION

By Universal Service

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Expenditure of $3,607,716 for new buildings and other improvements on War Department airplane landing fields was called for in a bill filed in the House by Representative W. Frank James, Republican, of Michigan.

Enlargement of the five-year Army aviation program was declared to be necessary by James, "in view of the possibilities of aircraft as shown by the trans-Atlantic flights of Lindbergh, Chamberlain and Byrd."

Congressional investigation of the question of aircraft defenses to determine the part planes shall take in the nation's defense system was advocated by James, who is ranking Republican on the House Military Affairs Committee.

Sacrifice and Love Fight In Ann's Heart for a Decision on Bill

Here is Ann's third and final letter asking for advice to help solve her love problem:

"Dear Miss Fairfax:

"Do you remember I told you I loved Bill? He proposed to me and I said I would marry him.

Now my sister tells me she loves him. I don't know what to do. I think—maybe—that Bill still loves her. Must I give him up? I love him so and I could make him happy.

"ANN HASTINGS."

And here is my answer:

"Dear Little Ann:

"If Bill loves your sister and she has come to realize that she loves him, there is only one thing to do, tell him what has happened and give him up. You could never be happy if you kept them apart.

"BEATRICE FAIRFAX."

CHAPTER XXX.

ANN thought it all out. Carefully, trying to keep her head quite clear, trying to find the truth.

Bill had asked her to marry him, and she loved him. But Georgie loved him, too—Georgie for whom she had once thought Bill was made!

She had poured her heart out in a few simple phrases. Without knowing how she knew, she faced the fact that deep down within him, it was for Georgie that Bill still cared. And yet—as she had written—she was sure she could make Bill happy. Or was she really sure of that?

And there was the answer plain before her: "You could never be happy, if you kept them apart."

"Oh, but I could, I could!" she whispered fiercely to herself. "Why must I be unhappy. Georgie had her chance and she threw it away. I understand Bill a hundred times better than she does. I appreciate him in lots of ways she never could."

And thinking that, her thoughts revolved until at last one thing stood uppermost. She could not let Bill go, not for his sake, not for Georgie's, not for anyone's.

To be Bill's wife, well, that was all she asked for. She would give everything else up, do everything else that life demanded. But this one sacrifice she could not make.

She finished her work and started homeward. Bill was going to call for her tonight. Tonight it would be just as well if she told Georgie. Do it tonight and get it done!

But she felt faint and tired as she drew near the familiar house. She wished that the ordeal before her were over. How was she going to tell Georgie? What was she going to say?

It was simpler than she expected. It was over sooner than she had hoped.

Georgie, too, was home. She was brushing her hair before the dressing table.

She looked up with a bright, friendly smile—almost the old Georgie come back again, Ann thought.

"How's everything? Anything new today?" Georgie asked.

"No. But—but Bill's coming this evening."

Georgie put down the brush, turned with interested eyes.

"Coming here tonight? You mean Ann, you've told him I want to make up? Oh, Ann, you are a darling!"

"No, no, that isn't what I mean." Georgie's faith in her was making the actual disclosure harder still.

"Oh, I see," said Georgie gravely. "He's coming here to see you, as he has been doing. And you think this would be a good chance for me to—well, to show him—"

She broke off, and her eyes reflected the vague wandering of her thoughts.

"I don't even mean that, Georgie," said Ann very deliberately. "You see, there's something I haven't told you. I couldn't tell you the other night or the next day. It's hard to say even now."

"What do you mean?"

"Did it ever occur to you," Ann asked slowly, "that Bill might have grown to care for someone else?"

"Why, he couldn't," said Georgie, with a charming, childlike simplicity. "He really loves me!"

There was a stab in Ann's heart. "It's not true," she told herself, "it's not true!" But only by closing her eyes to that truth, could she forget it. She flung out her words quickly, careless of how she said them. Fiercely almost, in her haste to say it and be done with it:

"Bill and I are going to be married in a month. He loves me."

There was a long silence, the kind of silence that seems almost audible. Ann was looking away, but she knew that Georgie's eyes were exploring her face, questioningly, wonderingly, and full of startled attention.

Then Georgie spoke. Her voice was quiet.

Getting up, she put her arm gently about Ann and drew her close.

"I'm awfully glad but I am a little surprised. You see I—I never guessed anything like this. But you and Bill . . . why that's wonderful! I'm glad, terribly glad. Please forget anything I said. You know, I'm such a fickle person that I could—well, I could fall in love with a dozen different men. I really could. So it's all right. And I'm terribly glad for you, just as I've said."

Ann looked up at last, slowly, guiltily. It seemed to her there was a different Georgie standing there, a maturer, kinder Georgie, not the careless little sister she had known, but a woman, with tenderness and compassion and bravery.

And Ann suddenly felt sick at heart. Because she knew she had listened to lies, lies of sacrifice and kindness. Georgie had been a bigger person than herself, a stronger, truer spirit. Georgie loved Bill. Her very quietness, her instant surrender, seemed to prove that more than a thousand wild and violent declarations.

With a sinking heart, Ann knew that Georgie loved Bill now quite as much as she did. But she couldn't give up, she couldn't yield. After all, she asked herself desperately, wasn't it true that Georgie really could, with her prettiness and her charm, find a dozen men she could like just as much who would also be attracted to her?

With that solitary scrap of comfort, she tried to fortify her resolution.

Love's Embers

Absorbing Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

By ADELE GARRISON

AT Lillian's murmured assertion that there was trouble ahead for me with Philip Veritzen without going out of my way to meet it, I whirled abruptly, facing her.

"What do you mean?" I asked, forgetting to lower my voice. She put up a quickly warning hand, with a lifting of her eyebrows toward the maid at the other end of the room.

"I'll tell you after we get back to my 'dear little home nest,'" she said with a wry grimace at the mocking reference to the small, shabby suite of hotel rooms in which she was marking time until her daughter came home from school. "But run some whalebone through your upper lip until then."

She brushed a powder puff lightly over her cheek, gave her reflection in the mirror a final critical glance and tucked her hand inside my elbow for the walk back to the balcony.

"All right. Please consider me shockproof from this second," I said with a lightness I was far from feeling, and then we were back upon the balcony where a waiter and an omnibus were carefully preparing a table close to the balcony railing for our dinner.

I had not eaten since early morning, before my train journey from the east end of Long Island, and despite the bountiful breakfast Katie had served at that time, the long motor ride following the railroad journey had made me listen with pleasant anticipation to Lillian's encomiums upon the dinners of Philip Veritzen's planning. But her cryptic warnings concerning my employer effectually robbed me of appetite during the first courses of the most marvelous dinner I ever had been served.

Gradually, however, I fought myself back to common sense and by the time the fish course, delicately browned mountain trout, appeared, I was able to do justice to what Mr. Veritzen patently considered one of the triumphs of his feast.

"How do you manage it, Phil?" Lillian asked.

"It isn't so complex as it seems. I have a standing reservation for a table here on certain days during the entire season. They always make sure that my favorite dishes are on hand. If I do have to cancel the reservation, there is always someone very glad to pick it up."

"I should imagine so," Lillian commented, and then Mr. Veritzen turned to me with a fascinating little air of deference.

"I have not dared to ask you before," he said, "for you were not eating and I feared you were indisposed, but now that you appear to have recovered your appetite, may we not have the story of your queer new Transvanian neighbors?"

What keenness his eyes possessed! I had flattered myself that I had managed to conceal my neglect of the first courses of the dinner. But he evidently had been watching me more closely than I had dreamed. To cover my confusion I plunged at once into a description of the Lincolns, who had leased The Larches for the season.

It did not take me long to realize that Philip Veritzen had a curiously intense interest in my story wholly unwarranted by the simple tale of the oddities of my new neighbors. Lillian was frankly intrigued by the tale, but her face held no such tensity as did that of my employer who frequently interrupted me to ask for a repetition of some detail of description which I had given.

Oddly enough, it was not the description of Eleanor Lincoln, the young chatelaine of The Larches, which had appeared to interest him most, although he had listened most attentively to my account of her, and had asked me to repeat two or three details of her appearance. I knew that he had a very definite picture of the young girl in his mind by the time I had finished. But he paid most meticulous attention to my account of the visit to the farm of the arrogant, ill-mannered uncle of Eleanor Lincoln, and then when I said that the girl's aunt was ill and could not be seen, he surprisingly said, as if to himself:

"It all fits in."

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, December 14.

The virtue of prosperity is temperance, the virtue of adversity is fortitude.—Francis Bacon.

EXCEPTING for the liveliness of social, domestic and affectional matters this day is generally under an adverse rulership of the planets. The mental attitude may be excitable and volatile and things may be attempted under a spirit of tumult and excitement.

It would be hazardous to undertake important projects under this impulse and caution should be exercised in affixing the signature to papers. Likewise be on guard against duplicity and beware all manner of excesses.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively year in personal matters, but one calling for poise and self-control in all other activities. Be on guard against fraud, duplicity and the reactions to ill-temper and quick speech.

A child born on this day may have many social or artistic accomplishments, but may need rigorous training as to self-government and restraint as well as to straightforward dealings and veracity.

Simple Vamping

(Lesson Three.)

By HELEN ROWLAND

DON'T let the thought of "what to give HIM" for Christmas worry you.

The most effective thing on earth that you can give a real He-man, is a day of rest. The only way you can make a man happy with a Christmas gift, is not to send him one!

This does not apply to a husband or a fiance. They must take their medicine, and try to grin and bear it. But, the Boy Friend, the temporary crush, and the platonic friend—why should these be afflicted with sentimental reminders, holiday junk, cigar lighters that never work, cravats they will never wear and pipes they will never smoke, from women whom they have never lifted their hands to harm?

HELEN ROWLAND

There is something about a present from a WOMAN that either covers a man with hot embarrassment or fills him with cold fright or resentment. The one thing on earth it never fills him with, is gratitude!

A man cannot understand how a woman feels about Christmas. To her, it is the Day of Days, when she just wells up and bubbles over with sentiment. There is something sacred and beautiful about the magic of the Winter Solstice, that sets her heart a-beating and her blood a-tingling, and causes her to spill over with tenderness.

More feminine hearts have been broken by a man's forgetfulness, or prosaic indifference on Christmas Day, than on all the other 364 days of the year.

But, at this time, a man is the stronger vessel filled with suspicion. He looks upon every gift from a woman as either a bore, a bid, or a snare.

The only way to please a man with a Christmas gift, is to refrain from sending him any.

The only thing to give him, that will please and surprise him, is the peaceful thought that, as far as YOU are concerned, he is immune from holiday junk, embroidered suspenders, and passionate haberdashery.

Safest Way to End Indigestion

There are many ways to stop indigestion. Few remedies used, however, do more than relieve the pain and these "half-way" treatments may lead to ulcers.

Two things should be done for indigestion—and at once. The harmful, gas-forming acid should be removed and the inflamed stomach lining protected.

Bi-nesia does both. It instantly neutralizes acid, stops fermentation, sweetens the stomach, prevents gas, and soothes, heals and protects the stomach lining. There's nothing better.

With Bi-nesia you can stop the worst attack of indigestion in five minutes. Relief is quick, safe, harmless. All druggists sell and recommend Bi-nesia tablets and powder—only 50 cents. Get a package today.

LOUGHRAN CLINCHES TITLE

M'KECHNIE GETS TRIO FROM PHILS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—Two baseball deals, one in each of the two major leagues, were announced here today as the National League magnates gathered for their annual winter session.

The St. Louis Cardinals and the Philadelphia Quakers figured in the National League transaction, the Cardinals sending Pitcher Jimmy Ring and Catcher John Schulte to the Phillies in exchange for Shortstop Jimmy Cooney, Outfielder Johnny Mokan and Catcher Clarence Jonnard.

Manager Bill McKechnie, in announcing the trade, stated that no cash was involved.

In the American League exchange, First Baseman Lou Blue and Outfielder Heinie Manush of the Tigers go to the Browns in return for Pitcher Elem Vangilder, Outfielder Harry Rice and a third player yet to be named.

The suggestion that Washington would figure in a three-corner deal with the Browns and Tigers, ostensibly with the idea of getting George Sisler, brought no display of enthusiasm by Bucky Harris, manager of the Senators. While he admitted that Washington was in the market for new material, Harris denied that he was interested in the Tigers and Browns.

Manush, who has been with the Tigers five years, was batting champion of the American League in 1926 but dropped down the list this year as his teammate, Harry Heilmann, won the batting crown. Blue has served seven years with Detroit and ranked among the leading first sackers.

Rice has been with the Browns four years and Van Gilder nine. The outfielder was a sensation in 1925, when he batted .359 but he dropped well under .300 last season. Van Gilder won 10 and lost 12 games in the 1927 campaign.

Donie Bush, Pirate manager, today was asked by Judge Landis, commissioner of baseball, to give some enlightenment to Landis on a matter concerning the sale of Pitcher Dutch Henry of Indianapolis to the New York Giants. Henry, it is said, was promised a bonus if he stayed with the Giants. Bush was manager of Indianapolis at the time of the deal and Landis evidently thought Donie could give impartial testimony on the issue between the player and the Indianapolis club. The National League went into session at noon. Outside of the deal between the St. Louis Americans and Detroit no transactions Americans and Detroit no transactions of importance were reported today.

Chapman To Meet Crowley

RED CHAPMAN, formerly of Homestead, but in recent years a Bostonian, returns to this section next Monday night to meet Tommy Crowley, local junior lightweight champion, in the main event of an all-star card of four eight-round bouts at Motor Square Garden, it was announced from the ring at the Zivic-Harmon show last night.

Chapman formerly sold newspapers and flowers in the downtown section of Pittsburgh. He has developed into one of the leading featherweight boxers in the country. Benny Bass nosed him out in an elimination bout at Philadelphia several months ago. They scored simultaneous knockdowns in this engagement.

Mike Moran is back in town after a sojourn in Indianapolis and will do his future boxing under the management of his original pilot, Fred Bochert. He will compete as a featherweight and would like to box Tommy Crowley, Phil Goldstein, U. S. Carpentier or any of the others of this poundage hereabouts.

K. O. Ferry and Jack Bany have been matched for the eight-round semi-final to the Ray Fay-Dick Gibbons bout at McKeesport Thursday night.

Jess Heak of McKeesport and formerly of the Navy, who recently defeated Jimmy Prescott of Carnegie at McKeesport, has been rematched with the latter for the semi-final to the Tony Ross-Young Piazzi bout at Carnegie Thursday night of next week.

A letter awaits Joey Novak at this office.

PIRATES OBTAIN LEAF SKATER

Pittsburgh, Chicago and Toronto put over a three-cornered player swapping deal yesterday, designed to strengthen each of the clubs.

The locals obtained Bert McCaffrey of the Leafs and send Ty Arbour to Chicago. Eddie Roden of Chicago went to Toronto. Toronto had traded McCaffrey to Chicago, who, in turn, sent him to Pittsburgh.

THROUGH the SPORT LENS

by HAVEY BOYLE

HAVEY BOYLE.

THAT seemingly paradoxical attitude of Mr. Ford's which says that more leisure means greater production finds an assenting opinion in baseball. Even the five-day week advocated by Mr. Ford, intended to decrease the toil of all citizens save bond salesmen, is improved upon in baseball. In fact, baseball has gone far beyond the somewhat radical ideas of Mr. Ford to borrow the Sabbatical year from the universities, who allow professors to take a year's vacation every seven years. Baseball through the agency of Branch Rickey, of St. Louis, has gone in for a year's vacation with pay for ball players. Mr. Rickey occupies a peculiar position in that twilight zone of occupation located somewhere between the manager and the president of the club.

DEEMING a pitcher named Flint Rhem worthy of a protracted rest Mr. Rickey out of his unorthodox baseball hat has conjured the notion that all Rhem needs to bring him back to pristine glory is a year's lay-off. The pleasant part of the notion is that Mr. Rickey believes that since the benefit will be mutual St. Louis ought to bear a part of the burden by paying Mr. Rhem just as if he were sitting on the bench, appearing in the bullpen, working a game, or talking of hunting and fishing as most baseball pitchers do during the summer months. Other baseball men may quarrel with the innovating Rickey for they will be quick to sense the danger of the situation. It will not be long, if Rhem is so treated, that bland pitchers, after a bad year, instead of accepting a salary cut, will ask that they be given a year's vacation with pay. The financial consideration is not so important as the consideration on the physical side. With enough baseball players asking for a year's vacation the toll in apoplexy and lesser fits among the baseball magnates is bound to be heavy. Like all revolutionaries, Mr. Rickey can count himself in for a good dressing down by his brother-employers of baseball. Like all revolutionaries, too, Mr. Rickey, if his designs succeed will find himself a hero, but with failure will find himself a bum. Sometimes there is only a fine line separating the hero from the traitor. We often, in this connection, shudder to think what the school books would be saying now of that most eminent of Americans, George Washington, if by unlucky chance, George

by JAMES J. LONG

THOUGH the report that Pitcher Emil Yde and Catcher Roy Spencer had been released to Indianapolis by the Pittsburgh club was without foundation, it does not necessarily follow that those two men are going to remain on the roster of the Pirates.

On the contrary, there is reason to believe that at least one member of the duo, and possibly both, will be disposed of by the Buccaneer management in the near future.

IN THE case of Yde in particular, there is hardly any doubt that he will be missing from the Corsair ranks next year. He was of little

HARMON EASY WINNER OVER JACK ZIVIC

By HARRY KECK,
Sun-Telegraph Sports Editor.

SADLY lacking in muscular co-ordination, Jack Zivic, local welterweight, dropped his third straight decision in the Motor Square ring last night, bowing to Willie Harmon of New York after having lost to Cuddy DeMarco and Young Saylor there. The largest crowd of the season in the local arena witnessed the battle, which was hard fought all the way, yet one-sided in Harmon's favor. Willie won every one of the 10 rounds and handed out quite a lacing to Zivic, who appeared to have gone back a great distance.

Jack seemed to have lost everything of his once splendid stock in trade except the ability to absorb punishment. Offensively he was a bust. Whereas his left hook was his main weapon at the top of his winning career, he was experimenting with a right chop to the jaw last night and using his left mainly for stabbing purposes and once in a while hooking feebly with it. He lacked pep and drive and seldom took the lead and showed no sustained punching attack. There was no two-handed hitting on his part.

HARMON COOL FIGHTER

Harmon fought in the same cool, methodical manner that he has in all of his other appearances here and couldn't miss with left uppercuts to the body or left hooks and right crosses to the head coming in and once inside he hammered the body at will. His right chops to the side were not so effective as they were when he knocked out Young Saylor two weeks ago, but they wrought plenty of damage nevertheless.

Although he took a man's sized beating, Zivic was none the worse for wear as he chatted with friends at the ringside after the bout. If he only could fight as well as he can "take it" he'd still be in the running for top

McMillin Stays at Geneva

BEAVER FALLS, Pa., Dec. 13.—Bo McMillin will coach at Geneva College another year. This became definitely known here last night at the annual President's dinner when it was announced that McMillin had placed his name on the dotted line.

Considerable pressure had been brought upon Bo by a few schools hoping to secure his services and his decision to remain at Beaver Falls is being welcomed by the entire Beaver valley as a fortunate move for Geneva.

PITT TO SEND 10-MAN SQUAD ON WESTERN CAGE TRIP

PANTHERS TO FACE FOUR FOES

By JESS CARVER.

DR. H. C. CARLSON, generalissimo of the University of Pittsburgh's basketball troops, will lead 10 players, a manager and a publicity agent on a four-game invasion of the West, which will start tomorrow night. The Panthers will play Michigan at Ann Arbor, Chicago at Chicago, Northwestern at Evanston and Iowa at Iowa City on the trip.

The squad named yesterday after practice by Coach Carlson to make the western jaunt included Capt. Sykes Reed, Lee Cohen, Stenks Hyatt, Stash Wrobleskie, Red McMahan, Scotty McGill, Jerry Wunderlich, Bill Ashbaugh, Paul Zehfuss and Art Sandberg. Manager Lynch will be in charge of the business end of the journey and Donald P. N. Saunders will handle the publicity. It will be his job to get the brass bands out at all stops.

The Panthers staged a spirited workout yesterday, scrimmaging for two hours against various freshmen combinations. The yearlings, with some fine material, gave the varsity a worth-while drill. While Dr. Carlson refuses to name a starting line-up, it is apparent that the team will line up against Michigan somewhat in this fashion:

Forwards—Hyatt and Wrobleskie; center, McMahan; guards, Capt. Reed and Cohen.

The football team was given another brisk drill yesterday by Dr. Sutherland and will probably get a like session today. It is the aim of the Panther coaching staff to keep the team in the same frame of mind they were in when they came out of the tough 7-0 contest with the Alumni Saturday.

Bill Kern, all-America tackle, who was injured in the game, was able to don a uniform yesterday and is not expected to suffer any lasting ill from his twisted leg.

THE American League will hold its regular meeting this evening and apparently plenty of matters appertaining to the welfare of the league are going to be discussed.

There is much feeling in Heidelberg regarding the treatment of the amateur champions in that game on Sunday and explanations will probably be in order. According to well posted soccerites, the green and gold cracks had quite a tough road to hoe before the game was over. Probably Referee Hamilton will have something to say regarding the game.

This cup tie, featuring the Westinghouse and Braddock outfits, is becoming a joke in the district. Last Sunday's session was the second effort of the teams to get the game settled. The first game found one of the clubs arriving late and though a contest was played, it was classed as an exhibition game.

Just why no one has been able to explain, for the rules state that under no consideration can a cup tie be changed into an exhibition game. If the game is played it must be a cup tie. This time it was a broken crossbar, and the referee should have made the teams finish without one, using his judgment when shots were close.

Back in 1918 the writer had an important game in the West Penn Cup and the home team found themselves losing by a 4 to 0 score with 12 minutes to go. A corner was given and one of the players trying an acrobatic stunt to amuse the supporters broke the cross bar. Well, the game was finished and the writer called them when close. It might have been a good trick had it worked, but it didn't, and a shot that might have skimmed the cross-bar was called a goal.

"REM proved to be such a good cough medicine that now I keep a bottle home and one at the station".

From coast to coast, REM's become a household remedy for coughs. Here's why: "Pleasant,-- harmless,-- effective." What more can a cough medicine be?

Insist on REM! Remember, its effectiveness is largely due to a special ingredient, not in ordinary cough syrups.

the Third and his Redcoats, had defeated the colonies. Doubtless on the pound notes of this Dominion we would all be gazing upon the idealized portrait of one, Benedict Arnold, who tried to help in the subjugation of the colonists.

MR. RICKEY, incidentally, is one of the interesting characters of the baseball domain. A college man, imbued with the class-room habit, he brought those pedagogical notions he picked up as he gazed at the professors into baseball—even going so far as to introduce the blackboard in the baseball clubhouse. Loaded, too, with charts and graphs, to say nothing of curves, Mr. Rickey often had what was called a skull drill for his plays. With unerring precision and shrewd insight, Mr. Rickey in front of his clubhouse blackboard would show the sweating students just how the last game was lost or won by his team. Many of the boys who had quit school at an early age to better equip themselves for the battle of life by knocking grounders and catching flies on yonder vacant lot got the shivers from this throw-back to dull school days and generally resented the lecture programs. They were unkind enough to say, as many practical performers say, that theory and practice always do not walk hand in hand. They thought Mr. Rickey was a theorist. Be that as it may, Mr. Rickey never was one to cast aside anything new in baseball just because it was new. He gave it a trial, anyway. Blackboard drills have been done away with in St. Louis, but Rickey goes marching on, arriving now at the point of offering a year's vacation to a pitcher. Here at last is a Rickeyerian innovation which will find little complaint among the rank and file.

service during the 1927 season, and as Fred Fussell and George Peery are being counted upon for the southpaw berths on the local slab staff in 1928, without counting the possibility of Lester Bartholomew's coming through, it is not hard to guess that the Dane will be sent elsewhere.

It is not certain that Emil will go to the minors, however, unless none of the other big league clubs is willing to accept him as part of the Pirate end in a trade.

The same goes for Spencer. Bush wants another catcher and if Spencer can be used in a deal for another maskman it is not likely that the Pirate management will refuse to part with him.

JUST what caliber of catcher, if any, the Pittsburgh club will be able to bag is a question. There are several on other National League clubs who could be obtained, but some of them cannot be given a higher-rating than the present Pirate second-stringers, and if Bush cannot strengthen his corps he may consider it useless to make any changes.

What Donie wants is a real catcher, close to the front ranks, who bats right-handed. He would give considerable in playing material or cash for a certain backstop now on an Eastern club, but it is by no means assured that he will succeed in inducing the other club to consent to let the man go.

MIKE CVENGROS, the southpaw flinger, who was released by the Pirate management recently, along with Catcher Ike Danning, to Wichita Falls in the Texas League, in part payment for Pitcher Fred Fussell, is in Pittsburgh for a few days' visit with local friends after an automobile trip from his home in Pana, Ill.

Baseball men are of the opinion that though he did not make the big league grade in his latest trial, he will have as big a season with Wichita Falls next year as he had with New Orleans in 1925, when he was one of the outstanding pitchers of the minors.

Another Pittsburgh visitor this week is Frank Waner, oldest brother of Paul and Lloyd of the Pirates. He made the trip from Ada, Okla., in connection with a business proposition in which he and Lloyd are to be partners here next year. Frank is to "run" the business while Lloyd is playing for the Pirates during the baseball season.

MONTREAL, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Dave Gill, manager of the Ottawa Senators, and Horace Townsend of Pittsburgh have been named to the board of governors of the National Hockey League, President Frank Calder announced today. Gill succeeds Redmond Quain of Ottawa, resigned, and Townsend replaces his brother, Ed Townsend.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—(UP.)—Tommy Angus of Scotland died today from concussion of the brain caused when his head struck the floor when he was knocked down by Jack Mansfield of England in the second round of a scheduled six-round boxing match.

The board of directors of the Tristate Conference at a meeting held yesterday declared George J. (Ganzy) Benedict, former Duquesne-Lafayette star, eligible to appear in the lineup of the Duquesne University varsity.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Dec. 13.—Carl G. Aschman of Charleroi, Pa., center, was yesterday unanimously elected captain of the Washington and Jefferson football team for 1928. Aschman was the only man nominated for the position and received the vote of all 23 letter men.

the N. B. A. candidate for the honors.

Although Buffalo's Bad Boy was defeated he ran a mighty close second and covered himself with glory for he was not expected to go the full route. This time he had not trained on Buffalo's main street. He was in the best of condition and gave his backers a great run for their money.

The bout was the best exhibition of boxing between big men seen here since the famous McCoy-Corbett affair that closed the Horton Law regime. For 19 rounds Slats more than held his own, but he blew up after that and Loughran nosed him out.

The attendance was rather slim only about 12,000 seeing the fight. The Garden would have been packed if boxing bugs had known in advance what was coming off.

Blizzard cold is no starting handicap to your motor with this new winter medium oil

A FLUID oil for easy starting—a firm-bodied oil for efficient lubrication. Suppose the qualities of both could be combined in one oil.

They have been!—in the remarkable new Atlantic Winter Medium.

Leave your car for hours amid winter's sleet and snow. Store it in an unheated garage all night. . . . Have Atlantic Winter Medium in your crankcase—and your motor will start even more easily than with light, thin oil. No drag! No strain on starter! No mental exasperation!

Yet Atlantic Winter Medium has the "body" to keep every cylinder and bearing protected against destructive friction. High motor heat won't thin it. The paraffine base takes care of that. Cold will not appreciably thicken it. A new Atlantic process prevents the congealing effect low temperatures have on paraffine base oils.

Put Atlantic Winter Medium in your crankcase now.

Atlantic 600 Transmission Oil
—a companion for
Atlantic Winter Medium

A lubricant for transmissions and differentials that is quite as remarkable as Atlantic Winter Medium is for motors. The extraordinary fluidity at zero of Atlantic 600 Transmission Oil, combined with its stability of "body," makes it an ideal lubricant at any weather temperature. Gears shift easily on coldest days.

heralded opponents. Working in a smooth manner while their opponents appeared muscle bound, the Mieles assumed a lead at the start and were never headed. Everything they attempted was successful, while things broke just the opposite for the Sianos.

Their attack built around Phil Aiello and Schrello, whose work last night stamped them as the finest pair of forwards engaged in light first-class basketball hereabouts, the Mieles completely bewildered their victims by a dazzling, sure-fire barrage of shots.

Judging by their performances last night there are only two clubs, possibly three, that stand a chance of upsetting the Mieles. The Goldensons and the Somermans remain almost sure obstacles, while considerable opposition will likely come from the McKeesport Junkers.

THAT the Goose Goslin Club will have to be reckoned with before the Allegheny County League championship is decided was proved last night, when the popular South Siders scored an impressive victory over the Enoch Rauh club in their opening contest at the Market House.

The Goslin outfit this season is every bit as strong, if not stronger, than last year's team, the addition of Lacey, former Schwartz Valley star, and Artie Hoffman, last year with the Goldensons, giving the South Siders two experienced players who should carry the Goslins far in the County League race.

Last night's showing bears out our contention that the Rauhs, despite the addition of a few veteran stars, will have to show considerable improvement if they hope to make any kind of a showing in this year's County League race.

When a team such as the Rauhs is held to three solitary field goals, all made by Johnny Serbin, there is either something radically wrong with the attack, or the Goslins boast a defense that is wellnigh impenetrable.

honors. However, he has slowed down to an almost unbelievable degree in his maneuvering and just simply can't let his punches go. It is obvious from his actions that he knows what he should do, but his muscles won't respond.

Harmon's left eye was slightly cut in the fifth round, but the trickle of blood was stopped and the injury didn't handicap him.

Zivic weighed 142½ pounds against 146½ for Harmon at 3 p. m. Jack fights Tommy (Kid) Herman at Philadelphia next Monday night and on January 6 meets Ace Hudkins at Detroit.

WELCH WINS, BUT LOSES

Teddy Welch of McKeesport, 140 pounds, outgeneraled and outscored Young Rudy of Charleroi, 136¼, in their 'steenth return bout, a bristling eight-round semi-final, but the judges agreed on Rudy as the winner. Rudy was the aggressor all the way, but was handicapped by his short arms, and Welch made him miss more blows than he landed, as Teddy used the ring to good advantage and fought a well-conceived counter fight. Teddy tired in the last round, but carried the second, third, fourth, six and seventh, with the first even, and only the fifth and eighth going to Rudy. It was, as usual, the best bout on the card.

Johnny Michaels of Jamestown, N. Y., 151 pounds, took a cuffing from U. S. Carpentier of New Kensington, 125½, in the six-round second bout. Michaels, strictly a "club fighter," never had had a look-in with the clever Carpentier, and lost every round by a goodly margin.

Jimmy Belmont of Braddock, 143½ pounds, won the decision over Johnny Vivio of Bloomfield, 146, in the six-round opener.

Forbes

This Big Corporation Is Proving It Has a Soul.

—By B. C. FORBES—

IS INDUSTRY becoming more humane? Are corporations, once called soulless," now developing souls? Is more thought being given to the wellbeing of employes? Is there now fairer treatment of the public?

Are our industrial, public utility, banking, railway and other business executives taking a broader view of their responsibilities? Are they disposed to exercise more consideration in their dealings with others—as well as less destruction in their actions towards one another as competitors? Have they given definite indications of a desire to earn the respect and the goodwill of their fellow-men?

THESE questions are prompted by what has been happening in Pittsburgh, following the tragic gas-tank explosion which spread death, injury and devastation over an area covered by 800 homes. A reader not connected with the company sends newspaper articles and editorials describing the stand taken by the gas officials towards those involved in the disaster.

Judge for yourself, from the following newspaper reports within a few days of the accident, the humaneness of this corporation, the Equitable Gas Company, a subsidiary of the Philadelphia Company. President A. W. Robertson, we are told, made this announcement:

"Although by reason of the uncertainty attending the happening of the blast the company is unable to fix the responsibility, it has been decided that all hospital bills for the injured would be paid and would continue to be paid and that our own forces would endeavor to promptly make settlement of claims arising out of injuries to persons.

"The company also is prepared promptly to provide immediate relief for the restoration of homes and household goods which have been damaged or destroyed."

WHENEVER any national disaster befalls, corporation heads usually are among the first to rush forward with large-scale, efficient aid. That was demonstrated as long ago as the San Francisco catastrophe. And since then marked progress indisputably has been made by most corporations along the lines of humaneness. One insurance company alone has issued to American employers group insurance for workers totaling $1,750,000,000. Had any man predicted such a development in the early days of trust organizing he would have been adjudged insane.

The simple truth is that our great business organizations, as a whole, are becoming very much like ourselves, just as humane and fair-minded as we are. Corporations are no longer artificial monsters, schemingly controlled by a few buccaneers. They are owned by many millions of small investors. Utility companies more and more are becoming owned by their own customers. And in many corporations no capitalist owns as much stock as the employes own.

ALL corporations are not yet above criticism. Railways and some other employers still work men every day of the week and every week of the year—an inexcusable, inhuman, un-American evil.

But, happily, the trend assuredly is in the right direction.

SUGAR MARKET.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The raw sugar market was easier early today, with prices 1-32c lower under increased offerings. Sales were reported of 100,000 bags of Cubas for prompt shipment and December shipment to local refiners at 4.78c.

The increased offerings in the spot market, a weaker London market and private advices from Cuba quoting President Machado as saying that the crop will start January 1 and that any mills have the privilege of starting the season's work as long thereafter as suits them, had an unsettling effect in the raw sugar futures market. The statement by the Cuban president was taken to mean that the grinding of the new crop would begin January 1. This led to more active selling, principally by houses with Cuban connections, of the nearer positions, causing early declines of 2 to 5 points. Stoploss orders were uncovered on this break, but a rally of several points followed on covering. At midday prices were net 1 to 2 points lower, with the undertone still unsettled. Another disturbing influence was the increased domestic beet sugar crop estimate by a prominent authority, who looks for an outturn of 956,000 long tons. Previous estimates were 924,000 and last year's outturn was slightly above 851,000 long tons.

A steadier tone developed in refined and list prices were more closely adhered to by all refiners. Quotations ranged from 5.8c to 5.9c for fine granulated. Proposal of sugar interests to form an American sugar institute in an effort to stabilize the industry, resulted in refiners who were accepting special prices at some consignment points withdrawing these prices.

STOCK PRICES CONTINUE UPSWING

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Stock prices made further recovery today. Industrials continued to lead the advance, gains in some of the high priced specialties running from 5 to nearly 10 points. Rails moved forward at a slow pace, although a good demand was apparent for some of the low priced issues. So great was the volume of trading during the morning that the ticker fell more than 10 minutes behind the market, despite the abbreviated quotations, but the pace slackened somewhat in the early afternoon.

Call money appeared to be in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 4 per cent, despite the withdrawal of $1,500,000 additional gold for shipment to England tomorrow.

Steels responded to reports of improving trade conditions. Accumulation of the sugars was stimulated by the announcement of the formation of a sugar institute to help stabilize the industry, American Sugar Refining being the early leader. Talk of special dividend disbursements accompanied the active buying of the tobacco shares, particularly the tobacco products issues which reached new high ground.

Violent fluctuations took place in Wright Aeronautical, which broke from an early high of 94 to 87 and rallied to around 92 by early afternoon. Curtis Airplane touched another new high. Among the score or so other issues to reach new high ground were Montgomery Ward, Simmons, Calumet and Arizona, American Steel Foundries, Hupp Motor, Endicott Johnson, Brunswick Terminal, Fidelity-Phoenix Insurance, Continental Can and Transue and Williams. St. Paul preferred and New Haven led the advance in the rails. "Katy" preferred attained a new peak.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 6 to 15 points, active months soon showing net advances of 23 to 30 points on active covering by recent sellers and fresh buying promoted by relatively firm Liverpool cables.

January sold up to 18.40c and May to 18.88c on this initial demand, but the higher prices encountered a renewal of realizing or scattered selling and there were reactions of 8 or 10 points from the best by the end of the first hour.

Private cables attributed the advance in Liverpool to covering and price fixing, and it was reported there had been some buying in Liverpool below 10 pence on a theory the market might be nearing bottom.

Buying here was considered chiefly in the way of covering but brokers reported some new buying, and there was a little buying of late months believed to be for continental account.

Demand tapered off after the close of Liverpool, while offerings increased. Selling became more active as prices worked lower. Active months broke into new low ground for the movement during the morning, with January selling off to 18.10c and May to 18.50c, or about 14 to 15 points below yesterday's closing quotations. Southern selling was reported on the decline, but a little more demand was reported around the 18½c level for May. The market showed rallies of a few points from the lowest at midday.

Vigorous pool activities were conducted in American Steel Foundries by interests recently in Radio's upswing. Another factor in Timken's better action was the expectation by officials of the company that negotiations for the acquisition of Ohio Seamless Tube will be successfully concluded. If so, Timken's earnings position should be strengthened.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Liquidating sales on the part of holders carried grain prices downward today with numerous standing orders forced into operation to stop losses at various limits. Lowest prices were reached toward the last, despite late cables telling of storms in Northern Argentina doing some damage and delaying the movement of wheat. The world's available wheat supply increased 4,162,000 bushels for the week and is now 291,924,000 bushels against 237,195,000 bushels a year ago.

At noon wheat was 1¾ to 1⅞c net lower, and corn 1¾@2¼c down.

In connection with increased offerings of southern hemisphere wheat at cheaper prices than wheat from north of the equator, a leading authority here pointed out today that with 89,000,000 bushels in the United States visible wheat supply, 53,000,000 bushels in the Canadian visible and 37,000,000 bushels of bonded wheat in store in the United States, the situation did not suggest that there is to be any scarcity for some time. Notice was also taken of assertions that both Canada and the United States will have liberal supplies to come forward from first hands.

According to advices current, Argentine wheat offerings today showed 3 pence per quarter decline, and Australian shippers have started offering new wheat on a large scale at 6 pence decline. New Argentine corn was also reported as being offered for April shipment and Liverpool corn prices were depressed on account of very large arrivals of corn expected at Liverpool this week.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Irregular price movements occurred in the bond market today and trading was relatively light. Two large public utility offerings aggregating $50,000,000 were expected to make their appearance in the market some time this week, of which $60,000,000 will be 5 per cent bonds of the Philadelphia Company and $20,000,000 in 5 per cent preferred stock of Duquesne Light Company, a subsidiary. Retirement of $25,000,000 bonds and $30,000,000 Duquesne 7 per cent preferred is contemplated.

Listed bonds continued to derive support from easy money conditions and recessions were fractional. On the other hand there were a few brisk advances, Liquid Carbonic 6s moving up more than a point to their previous high for the year. International Telephone 4½ were firm.

The foreign group was quiet and steady. A few German issues fell off slightly and some of the Australian obligations followed a firm trend.

Easing tendencies and a limited volume of trading characterized the federal Government group.

NEW YORK CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—(AP.)—Dealings continued on a large scale today on the curb market, but price movements were irregular, many issues being under pressure because of profit taking sales in large volume caused some sharp reactions. There were new high records again made in a number of issues, due, in some cases, to special reasons.

Ford Motor of Canada, which, a couple of weeks ago, sold as high as 725, but has since been steadily offered, closing yesterday at 600, dropped 38 points today to 562 and after rallying to 585 again declined. Auburn had an early advance of a point, which was lost in the next few sales, and Firestone Tire moved up over 4 points to 188½.

Sugar stocks were among the strong features, being strengthened by the formation of the American Sugar Institute. Fajardo rose over 2 points to 157 and Central Aguirre, which was strong yesterday, made an additional gain. Newmont Mining, which is a large holder of important securities, entered new high ground on an advance of 4 points to 129. American Cyanamid advanced 4 points, making a high record at 43½, and Atlas Plywood also made a high record.

Utilities were irregular. Brazilian Traction dropped over 8 points to 216¼ and American Gas and Electric rose over 2 points. Some of the usually active issues had losses ranging from 1 to 3 points.

Tubize Artificial Silk, after advancing 4 points to 484, fell back to 475. United Biscuit issues were again active and strong. U. S. Freight rose over 2 points, making a high record at 186. Coal stocks were steady.

Richfield Oil was a strong feature in the oil group, moving up ¾ to 27½. Prairie Pipe Line made a gain of a point. Standard Oil of Indiana shares rose in the early trading and then fell back.

Engineering Sags On Local Board

Mild pressure on United Engineering & Foundry caused a fractional break in those shares during the first half of the session on the Pittsburgh Stock Exchange today. Several hundred shares came out on a range down from the opening at 53⅜. The recession was orderly, however, and fair support was apparent for the stock just under the market.

The miscellaneous list was quiet and lacked spirit. Considerable interest was displayed in Consolidated Ice preferred, which got into new high ground for the year above 25, but the Street was without information to account for the rise. Rumors were heard of a pending sale of some of the company's local real estate, but nothing official was forthcoming. Two dividends of 75 cents each were declared on the stock a few months ago. One of these has been paid and the other will be paid December 20 to stock of record December 5.

Fuel stocks were practically unchanged. Reports from Shreveport, La., that rumor of a deal between Empire Gas and Fuel Company and Arkansas Natural Gas were in circulation there did not excite the local trading fraternity. Similar rumors have been heard here for three months. Arkansas was quiet round 9 and 9⅛, the level at which it has been selling for a week. Empire Gas is a Cities Service Company affiliation.

A WISE CHRISTMAS GIFT

Always a welcome gift, as well as an eminently practical one, is a bond at Christmas time. Many people prefer it to money, since money is usually spent or banked at once, and does not preserve its identity as a gift. Bonds on the other hand pay interest at regular intervals, each payment bringing a pleasant reminder of the giver. Also, the time and thought involved in the selection of a bond make it a more personal gift than cash or checks.

Interest from a bond is always a welcome addition to the income, whether the recipient be young or old. The Mellon National Bank offers a variety of attractive securities, in which its own funds are invested, from which investment specialists will help you select the type of bond most appropriate for the person for whom it is intended. Bonds are issued in convenient denominations of $100 and multiples thereof.

HOW TO GET ON

Vocational Editor—

I dallied for years. I used to yawn and fall asleep. One day I said to myself, "Horace, buck up. You can if you think you can." So it was that I determined to make something of myself. I set to work and invented a one-man auto top that only takes three men and a boy to put up. Now automobile manufacturers pay me handsome royalties and I don't know what it is to have shooting pains in the back.

BUGS BAER Says

THERE have been player-managers in baseball, but Billy Evans will be the first umpire-manager.

ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER.

We have always thought that good umpiring would help the Cleveland team and they are now in a position to get it direct from broadcaster to consumer.

Evans is the most popular umpire who ever missed the fourth strike. He is probably the only "ump" in either league who can walk through the bleachers wearing his mask.

Still, we do not think that Evans will be happy in his new job when the season starts.

As an umpire he called them as he saw them.

Now, as a manager, he will have to see them as another turkey calls them.

The complications may become involved in ninth-inning pinches. Instead of yanking out the pitcher and substituting a right fielder, Bill may pull out the umpire and do the work himself.

Umpiring has been his life job. When one of Bill's players takes a third strike with the bat over his shoulder, Bill is liable to give him a base on balls with the bat over his head.

However, we wish him good fortune in his new job. He acquires a new dignity and power as manager. When he umpired he could only suspend a Cleveland player for 30 days. Now he can exile them for life.

"You Said It, Marceline!"

By MARCELINE d'ALROY

ON "RETURNING FAVORS"

It seems some girls think
It is SMART to keep a man
WAITING twenty minutes for
A dinner ENGAGEMENT.
Well! If he is very YOUNG
She may go up in his
ESTIMATION, but if he is
Forty—it's DIFFERENT.
At FORTY, a man thinks
He has LESS TIME. This may
Or may not be TRUE,
But, as a rule, he knows
WHAT he wants to put into
The TIME he has.
After DINNER he usually fancies
A CIGAR, and even Though he may want to RUSH
The girl, he does not want
To rush his DINNER,
And then, again,
MOST men do not like
Going into the THEATER late
And climbing over
STRANGE and antagonistic
KNEES in the dark.
To many girls these are
TRIFLES—the important
Things are that the MAN
Does not forget
The corsage BOUQUET, that the Theater SEATS are good, and
The dinner EXPENSIVE.
She who accepts courtesies
Should EXTEND them.

Silence in England

Contrast Too Sharp for Britain's GOOD

TWO MINUTES' SILENCE IN THE HUNTING FIELD

These two pictures of Armistice Day in Great Britain are pictures of what we call "modern civilization."

Studying them, you see what is the matter with the world, what ALWAYS has been the matter with the world and what many mistaken wise men will tell you always MUST be the matter with this world.

These two pictures show the top and bottom of civilization in Britain. Those that have opportunity and waste it in idleness and pleasure, those that lack opportunity and are the slaves of hard work, slavery that comes from lack of opportunity.

Fox hunters in one picture, coal miners in the other, paused for two minutes on Armistice Day to remember the dead with gratitude and reverence.

The fox hunters bow their heads solemnly, then jump on their horses to gallop after the fox. The miners pause, with heads bare, covered with the grime of the mud pit, and at the end of the day's long, hard work go to their sleep to prepare for another hard day.

TWO MINUTES' SILENCE AT THE MOUTH OF THE MINE.

Prosperous gentlemen, chasing foxes that they breed and protect carefully to have the pleasure of killing them, are not at fault. They have opportunity, education, wealth, and indulge in pleasure that attracts them. It would take imagination to make them do otherwise. They lack it.

The miners worked as children; opportunity and education were denied them. Their bodies were stunted by hard work in childhood, their minds stunted even more.

The miners are unhhappy in their hard life of constant, excessive toil.

And the fox-hunting gentlemen are unhappy in their life of idleness and self-indulgence.

Idleness, as far as the mind goes, is worse than hard work.

These two pictures represent the world's problem based on human imperfection.

It is a problem gradually solving itself. Men more highly civilized are ashamed of idleness and leisure. The number of rich men that do nothing, or that make pleasure and excitement their CHIEF occupation, is constantly diminishing.

The conditions of working men are better day by day. Education, public and free, is doing its work.

The day is coming when such contrasts as this will not exist on the earth.

May free education hasten the day.

Wisdom of Mr. Morrow's Assignment to Mexico

Events are proving that President Coolidge knew what he was about when he sent his friend, Dwight W. Morrow, to represent us in Mexico.

Mr. Morrow took to that task qualities which had made him a striking success in other fields—industry, insight, poise and an unusual aptitude for sympathetic understanding.

He has been on the new job long enough to prove that he fits it and it fits him.

It is quite the biggest job in our whole diplomatic establishment right now. Some European countries that have habitually been regarded as more important than Mexico are in fact less important from the American standpoint.

We can keep out of affairs in Europe to a great extent, and the best diplomacy would be to keep out of them. But we cannot keep out of affairs on the North American continent.

Mexico is a neighbor. It is contiguous. It is part of our American family. It is the country with which our relations, as revelations in this newspaper have shown, are on a most unsatisfactory basis.

Dwight Morrow is the kind of man who can get them established on a better and safer basis. He is making progress daily. The soundness of the President's judgment in picking him for the difficult task, and in persuading him to make the large personal sacrifice which he had to make in order to undertake it, is already vindicated.

We need men of his type in each of the capitals of Latin-America.

Wall Street Watching Congress

The Constant Fight

By DR. FRANK CRANE

THERE is something in human nature that just naturally takes to a contest, any kind of a contest.

I recently saw a movie in which two men raced beetles to see which one could go the fastest. Mark Twain's story of the Jumping Frog is well known.

This disposition sometimes leads us into the most absurd competitions.

Not only are there beauty contests, but there are coffee drinking competitions, flag pole sitters, and recently at the county fair in Suffolk, Virginia, prizes were given for wives that could call their husbands in the most endearing tone.

Prizes are offered in schools and the best scholar or the most diligent student receives a reward. And there have been prize poems, prizes for the best orators and so on.

There continue to be aspirants for the glory that is to be reaped from flying across the Atlantic.

It is doubtful whether any really good work is done for the motive of getting a prize, although prizes continue to be offered for everything.

The best worker is one who is interested in his work and does the best he can. He does not desire to excel some one else, but is interested in excellency alone for its own sake.

We have never heard of Shakespeare, Dante, Goethe or Homer competing for a prize, and we have never read a prize poem that amounted to very much.

Even when the prize of great fame and glory comes to one who has done something remarkable, as in the case of Lindbergh, the hero does not seem to appreciate the prize so much as he is gratified at performing his feat well.

We cannot all excel in everything, as no two trees in the forest can be the highest. The principal thing is to do well that which lies within our power and to do it as well as it can be done.

Garrett P Serviss Says:

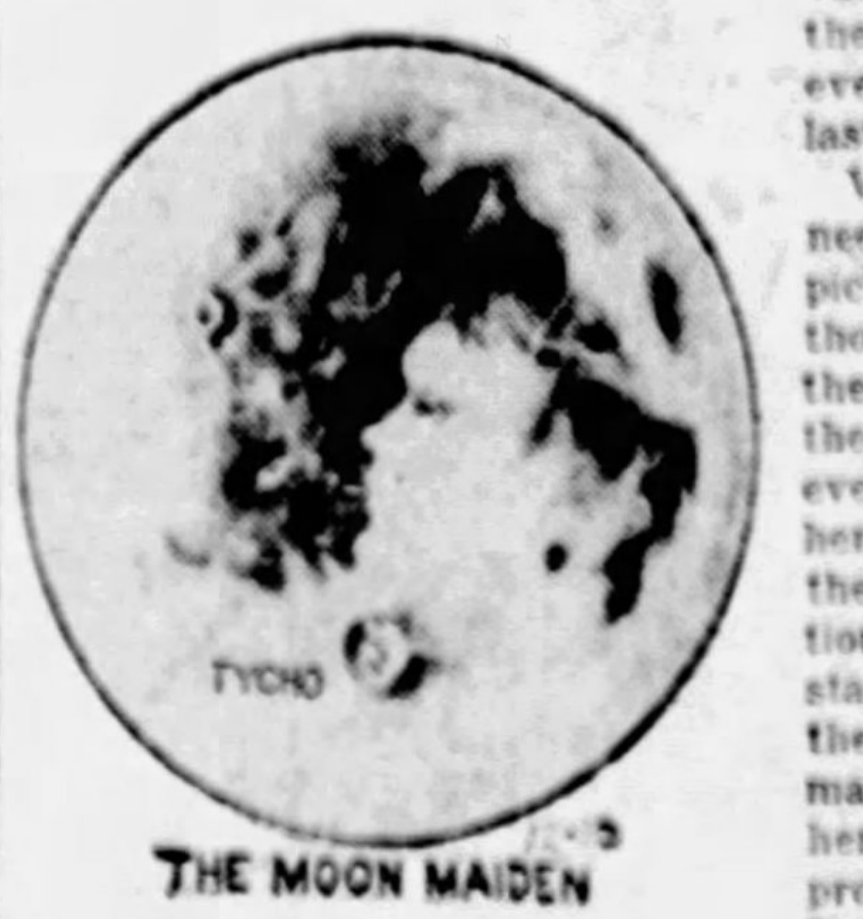
The Moon Maiden

"Just what is the 'man in the moon'—i. e., just what spots, or 'seas' go to make up the face that some people see with the help of the imagination? I have been trying to figure it out with the aid of my opera glass. I see a face (it may not be the right one) toward the left, with the crater Manilius forming the eye. The Mare Nubium forms the background for the outline of the face, and his cap is formed by the Mare Serenitatis, Mare Tranquillitatis, Mare Fecunditatis and Mare Nectaris. His cap seems to be the type some of our college professors sometimes wear; the big baggy ones without a bill. Just what will you have to say about this—R. J. D."

I DON'T know any "man" in the moon, but there is a "maiden" there; likewise an "old womaan." Naturally, the maiden is the more interesting, and if this were not a prohibition country one might sing, while gazing upon her with an opera glass, or even the naked eye alone:

"I lift this cup to one
Made up of loveliness alone."

Your description applies very well to this lunar maiden, who is seen, as you say, facing toward the left. Her face and hair (marked out by the "seas" you mention) occupy more than half the western side of the moon, and may be fully seen shortly after first quarter, continuing to be conspicuously visible after the full moon phase. The advancing shadow of the lunar night, however, covers it before last quarter.



THE MOON MAIDEN

Verbal description needs the aid of a picture as a guide to those seeking to see the moon maiden for themselves — and everybody should see her, for she is one of the greatest attractions of the celestial stage. I have done the best I can to make a picture of her, but I am not proud of the result. Frankly, it is a failure, yet it may be useful. What you should see is a photograph of this charming deception, and I venture to recommend for that purpose my book on "The Moon," in which you will find reproduced a complete series of photographs of the moon in its successive stages from new to full and from full to new, including a number on which both the "Moon Maiden" and the "Old Woman in the Moon" are very clearly shown.

The accompanying descriptions in the text will give you all the information needed to discern the details of lunar topography that are concerned in the construction by the imagination of these remarkable figures.

Different peoples in different ages have imagined various other human and animal figures which they thought they could discern in the face of the moon, including a hare, an old woman with a brush (who may be the same that I have described in the book mentioned), and many figures of local legend. It is a gift that everybody has not been endowed with to see these creations of fancy which give great pleasure to those able to perceive them.

Your Faults

YOU don't need glasses to see faults in others, but a magnifying glass cannot show you up to yourself as far as your own faults are concerned.

Do you think you have fewer faults than other people?

You see so many things about others that you don't like and you criticize freely, particularly in your own family.

Because the members of your family do not retaliate, it is not an indication that they see nothing in you of which to complain.

Your children dare not criticize you, your husband or your wife may refrain from referring to your faults because they know there would be a scene.

Others may have faults that you don't possess, as you think.

But very likely you have some as annoying as those of which you complain.

It is usually true that those who have the most to say in a derogative way about others possess the most disagreeable traits themselves.

You are not an exception to the general rule.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

A Query

SO MUCH of beauty lies all about.
Why are you dimming the way with doubt?
Here is a day with long hours to fill—
Think, you can make of it what you will!

Will it be darkened by dull defeat,
Or will each moment be glad and sweet?
Yours is the power always of choice,
Choose then aright, and rejoice, rejoice!

Much has been said of the power of thought,
Much has been told of the wonders wrought,
Down through the ages by might of mind,
How it can fashion life, cold or kind.

Yet is man's grasp of the message slow,
Lacking in vision as long years go;
So much of gladness lies all about,
Why are you shutting life's splendors out?

New York Day by Day

by O.O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—That section along Tenth avenue known as Hell's Kitchen has always been considered the toughest territory in the city. By day and by night it has a brooding, sinister manner. Cops often walk in pairs and the snitch is found lifeless in vacant lots.

It is the last stand of the side-of-the-mouth talkers—who call a girl "a skoit," wear sweaters and caps with the visors over one ear. Its gangsters are not always the petty-pilferers who terrorize small tradesmen, but huskies who battle often for the sheer love of fighting.

They, of course, hate cops. That is the first law of the gangster. The violence of Hell's Kitchen differs from that of the sneaking pistol ambusher of the East Side who blazes away from a roof top or auto and runs. Hell's Kitchen uses its fists and fights in the open.

Almost every Hell's Kitchen tough has his "moll buzzer"—one of those indefinite blondes who wink slyly along side streets of Broadway. It is little to its credit but toughs of Hell's Kitchen are American. There is a pronounced and dangerous hatred for foreigners.

The hang-outs of the denizens are dingy pool halls. Here some plan petty crimes—holdups of restaurants, cigar stores and such and the waylaying of bank messengers. Such are usually in league with the pirate taxi-drivers for the get away.

The neighborhood has local characters who are known by such robust nick-names as "Butch," "Slops," "Dusty" and "Red." The girls are Gerties, Pansies, Mamies and Minnies. The Saturday night "racket" is still a festive event—a dance of the clan in a hired hall.

Respectable families—and there are many in Hell's Kitchen—look on with resignation. It has always been so and they expect no change. There is a code among the toughs that protects them. They are the sort known as "good to their mothers."

A New York millionaire takes—to many at least—an ideal vacation. For three weeks every year he visits some small town in which he is a total stranger. He packs along a pile of mystery novels and just reads, sleeps and smokes a pipe. Only his wife knows his address.

Reporters are not the humble worms they are pictured. A group of them waited at a certain Park avenue mansion to question the autocratic master about a rather personal and embarrassing matter. When he drew up in his car and stepped out, they surrounded him.

"I'll have nothing to say to you rotten scavengers," he blustered.

"All right," said a member of the clan, "but at least you will remember one of us"—and he promptly stepped forward and socked the great man in the eye.

Novels and the stage have popularized a certain type of reporter which cannot be uprooted. He is a glum, seedy-looking individual with an extremely cynical manner with a pencil poised over a notebook and a flowing bow tie. The reporter has always been as well dressed as the average man and has a sense of humor or he would not be a reporter. If he takes notes, he usually borrows a pencil and makes them on the back of perhaps the latest statement from his tailor.

The good reporter is not easily bamboozled. He has been trained to detect deception. He usually listens with a bland attitude of acquiescence, and many have believed they completely fooled him—until they picked up the paper the next morning.

Tulley Marshall, if memory serves, is the only actor I ever saw who played a reporter's part as it should be played. He acted like an ordinary human being.

When a crossing cop gave me an undeserved push back to the curb this morning, I waited until I reached the other side and crossed right back again sneering. Just one of my wild and hot-blooded moments.

Tales That Are Told

Couldn't Be Closer

COL. CRUMPLEIGH was a very fussy sort of individual who took every care to see that whatever happened, personally he would be in clover.

At the box-office of a theater he was making quite a business of buying a stall.

"Are you quite positive," he said to the man behind the grille, "that this seat is pleasantly near the stage, my good man?"

This was the third time he had asked the question, and the box-office clerk was very annoyed.

"Sir," he retorted, "if it were any nearer the stage you'd have to act in the play."

The Biased Critic

WILLIE WALKER paused outside the local cinema. A poster had caught and held his attention. Presently the commissionaire, an old friend of Walker's, appeared on the scene.

"Is it a good picture?" asked Walker, nodding to the advert.

"No," answered the other bitterly; "rotten! Better stay outside and save your money."

"H'm," said Walker. "If you say those sort of things to people, you'll get yourself the sack before long."

The commissionaire's reply was even more venomous.

"I've got it," he said.
